WAKE FOREST COLLEGE

WAKE FOREST, NORTH CAROLINA

Dr. Harold W. Tribble

Doctor Harold Wayland Tribble is now serving his first year as President of Wake Forest College, but he is no longer a newcomer. In only a few short months, he has endeared himself to the students and alumni of the school. Probably no "freshman," as he jocularly refers to himself, has ever become so rapidly orientated and integrated. Dr. Tribble has accepted Wake Forest as his own and has shown the desire to serve unceasingly for the continued advancement of the institution and to maintain the Christian ideals on which it was founded.

The new president came to the college at a critical moment in its history. The nation was just returning to peacetime normalcy and the college stood on the brink of an era of opportunity. The trustees once again sought an eminent and capable leader who could guide Wake Forest to new successes. Dr. Tribble, minister and teacher, brought with him dreams and aspirations that paralleled those of his predecessors and the integrity and ability to fulfill these ambitions. These attributes, revealed in his quiet power and Christian love, compel us to hail him as a great new leader and loyal friend. We readily predict many years of growth and success under his inspired guidance and take pleasure in joining with others in paying tribute to the new president of Wake Forest College.

DEDICATION

Dr. Thurman D. Kitchin

More than twenty years ago, Dr. Thurman D. Kitchin dedicated his life to the service of this institution. The length of his tenure as president of Wake Forest and advances made by the college during this period are testimonies to his greatness. Many buildings were constructed in his term and they stand as the visible effects of inspired leadership. The story that will unfold in this book is one of progress, and it is only fitting that its foremost character should be acclaimed here.

Two decades ago, Wake Forest College had to choose a president following the resignation of Dr. Francis P. Gaines. In the midst of a national depression, the trustees realized the necessity of selecting a leader for the College who could offer boundless energy as well as devotion to duty. Dr. Kitchin met all of the prerequisites. He was not only an educator and leader of remarkable ability, but he was also a son of the college who had been endowed with the dream of the founding fathers. Moreover, he had a determined desire to play a part in the culmination of that dream. His success will be recorded in the heart of every student, alumnus, and friend of the college for as long as Wake Forest shall be remembered. To the love and accord that is already his, the staff humbly and inadequately adds its tribute.

FOREWORD

Now, we give this volume to a friend of Southern in the United States and part of the United States Council. It is a record of growth as the 25th anniversary of the college, a record of growth and progress of a new institution in the year the year is the year of the College.

The first part of the volume is the record of the college and its growth and progress. It is a record of growth and progress as the 25th anniversary of the college, a record of growth and progress of a new institution in the year the year is the year of the College. They are representative of the year of the college and not of the college as a prominent position in the college. will find the leaders that you selected to study student affairs at the college and those who have excelled in scholarship. They were used to guide you as you were entering or leaving and assist them. The staff includes the section or an official to lead these leaders and through to their graduation ceremonies and to furnish you with a record of the students that helped you shape your identity by showing the way in scholarship and distinguished service.

The section to athletics has a 1-gram purpose. It gives a brief but complete view of individual athletes which are so much a part of campus life. The second feature of this section presents the illustrious members who carried the Gold and Black to intercollegiate athletics. From football to golf, you will find their names and names that appeared often in headlines of state, youth, and even national sports. As for records and resources, this staff has told the story of athletics at Wake Forest for 1950-51. We hope that you will be able to capture the underlying "spirit" that inspired these athletes to do a little more than the possible on behalf of Alma Mater. This adjoining feature, too inadequately recorded and described, provides the entire section. In future years you will doubtless wonder what strange power urged this little college to participate in sports in such a large scale and so successful. We hope that we have included the answer somewhere in this section.

Student activities have grown steadily in scope and number since the early days of the college until there are now twenty-five prominent organizations on the campus. All of these are given as much space as could be spared in the activities section. This division of clubs and activities is presented as a commendation to those students who made an effort to attain a broader outlook and a more complete education through campus activities. Moreover, the section records the matter of college life outside the classroom during 1950-51 for your future pleasure.

Since social fraternities were sanctioned by the administration of the college in 1922, they have been a prominent aspect of the college. Today, there are ten social fraternities that set the trend for campus social life. In the social fraternity section, each college has two pages for a "nominal" fee allotted to it. Whether you are a member of one of these fraternities or not, you will enjoy reading of the ever-present dances, decorations, contests for Home-coming, contributions to charity, floats for parades, serenades to the co-eds, the movie boycott and other fraternity activities that are a part of the story that this yearbook tells.

The lovely section is "from half sweet." It is aimed at describing the familiar ways of "sime-out of ten girls in North Carolina going to some other school and the whole one coming to 'Wake Forest.'" This section is a comparatively new feature in 'Wake Forest' annuals as only one or comparatively new features at the college. The lovely section is not very long as there are not many pages to the annual but if a new directory for girls is built in coming years, more pages will probably be added to future annuals.

The symbol for student life is an explanatory and again no explanation here. It aims at presenting a cross-section of life on the campus, as well as the highlights which all of us will remember. At the same time it aims to record or the outstanding events of the year—and presents a panoramic view of the actions that characterize the pattern of life at 'Wake Forest.'

The concluding section concludes the yearbook. More than anything the product of service of the firm, however, it is a record of the many friends of the college who contributed to the success of this yearbook. The staff recommends these friends to you for your future reference, as the yearbook could not have been as comprehensive as it is without their aid and support.

In the division of the book into sections, the story of 1950-51 at 'Wake Forest' is told in its component parts. We urge you to furnish your own transition and by combining the various sections of the book, the staff sincerely hopes that you will be able to grasp the story of this year at 'Wake Forest' in its entirety each time you peruse this book.

The staff fully realizes the inadequacy of the annual and yet takes pride in the result obtained by hard work. The finished product may not seem too impressive now, but we trust that in future years, you may take this yearbook from the shelf, brush away a score or a decade of dust and use it to recall vividly your days at 'Wake Forest.' We are aware of the inability of cold words and pictures to capture the warmth and feeling that are attributes of human experience only, but we have made an earnest effort to furnish you with a guide in memories.

So, with a humility born of the immense responsibility felt has been ours and with the pride that comes when a job is done, the staff presents for your enjoyment—the 1951 HOWLER.

ADMINISTRATION

• This was a year of transition in many ways for Wake Forest College. There were several changes made in administration and organization of departments. In addition to the new administrators the college added fourteen new instructors.

Dr. Harold Wayland Tribble, formerly president of Andover Newton Theological School, was inaugurated as the president of the college early in the fall. He replaced Dr. Thurman D. Kitchin, who resigned last year and reassumed his duties as a Professor of Physiology and Hygiene.

Dr. Daniel Bunyan Bryan, Dean of the College, rounded out thirty years of service with the college, and Miss Lois Johnson was in her tenth year as Dean of Women. Mrs. John Chandler became Assistant Dean of Women during the year.

The School of Religion lost its dean last year with the departure of Dr. Sankey L. Blanton to become president of Crozer Theological Seminary. Dr. J. Allen Easley, Professor of Religion, was named to head the School as acting dean.

HAROLD WAYLAND TRIBBLE, B.A., Th.M., Th.D., President of the College. Dr. Tribble, scholar and theologian, was inaugurated November 28th, 1950.

DANIEL BUNYAN BRYAN, B.A., M.A., Ph.D., Dean of the College since 1923, and Professor of Education since 1921.

LOIS JOHNSON, M.A., Dean of Women and Associate Professor of French since 1942.

ELLIOTT B. EARNSHAW, M.A., Bursar of the College, and Secretary of the Board of Trustees since 1923.

The School of Business Administration was headed for the second year by Dr. Gaines M. Rogers. This section of the college was a comparatively new feature, having been established only two years ago. The offices and classrooms in the Chapel were renovated and the staff enlarged to place the school on a par with other divisions of the college.

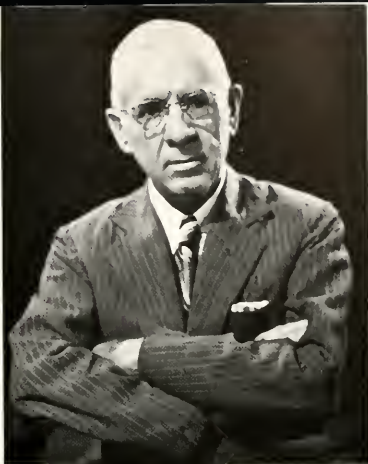

Other administrative departments were relatively unchanged. Mr. Elliott B. Earnshaw acted in the capacity of Bursar and Secretary of the college for his forty-fifth year. Mr. Grady S. Patterson completed twenty-five years as Registrar.

The efficiency of the administration was commendable in view of changing circumstances and difficulties which they faced. One of the most significant actions by the administration was the procurement of a Reserve Officer's Training Unit for the college.

GAINES M. ROGERS, M.A., Ph.D., Dean of the School of Business Administration and Professor of Business Administration since 1948.

J. ALLEN EASLEY, Th.M., D.D., Acting Dean of the School of Religion and past Pastor and Chaplain of the College from 1928-38.

GRADY S. PATTERSON, B.A., Registrar of Wake Forest College since 1926.

ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANTS

DR. J. GLENN BLACKBURN, Chaplain

LIBRARY STAFF: Carlton P. West, Librarian; Mrs. Ethel Crittenden, Miss Minnie Kallam, Mrs. Minto Folk, Mrs. Kent Barbee, Miss Ellen Ewing, Mrs. Vivian Wilson, Mrs. Ellen Flowers.

NEWS BUREAU STAFF, headed by W. Tom Bost, Jr., and assisted by Secretary Mrs. Evelyn Bost, and Norwood Pope.
INFIRMARY . . . Dr. George C. Mackie, College Physician, Florence Bartholomew, Resident Nurse.

• Performing the countless tasks which are essential for the successful operation of the college, the staffs of the various administrative officers seldom received the credit due them for their fine work. Individual student records were handled by the Registrar's Staff. The staff of the Bursar managed the financial matters of the college. By their close cooperation, the staff of the College Library rendered valuable service to the student body.

The News Bureau, under the direction of Tom Bost, dispatched news items concerning the college to over three hundred papers and radio stations throughout the country. For his untiring efforts in boosting Wake Forest College, Mr. Bost was selected as having done the best job of the year during 1949-1950 as sports publicist in a college with an enrollment of less than three thousand. Now that Wake Forest is moving to Winston-Salem, the college depends on this office to help establish the college in its new home.

The staff of the College Infirmary administered to the physical needs of the college community. Two new nurses, Miss Francis Tumblyn and Miss Emily Russell, were employed to alleviate the burden carried by Dr. Mackie created when Dr. George Corbin was called into the Army in the fall.

REGISTRAR'S STAFF . . . Winnifred Royal, Mrs. Jean Daniel, Mrs. Mary Lou Beaton, Mrs. Margaret Perry, Mr. Patterson, Registrar; Mrs. Jennie Walton.

BURSAR'S STAFF . . . Mr. Earnshaw, Bursar; Worth Copeland, Mrs. Edith Earnshaw, Mrs. Virginia Cocke, Miss Isabel Knott, and James B. Cook.

In Memoriam

• On returning to school in the fall of 1950, many students were shocked to hear of the death of Coach Phil M. Utley. He had been closely associated with Wake Forest since his enrollment as a student in 1909. In the four ensuing years, he established himself as an all-time athletic hero at the college.

In 1922, Coach Phil returned to Wake Forest to serve as Director of Athletics, Director of the Gymnasium, and more recently as Director of Intramural Sports and Head Track Coach. He held the latter positions at the time of his death on June 15, 1950.

With the passing of Coach Phil, the college lost one of its most colorful figures. For twenty-eight years, he lent his amiable personality and sober guidance to the molding of men and morals and to the general progress of the college.

REGISTRATION

CONFUSION RAMPANT. Registration Day proves to be the general melée that it usually is, with standing in line the order of the day. The "approved" list of professors was eagerly scanned by anxious eyes.

FORMS, BLANKS, CARDS, in endless profusion provide enough red tape to keep the Registrar's office busy for months—every bit of which is highly necessary for the efficient handling of classes, grades, cuts, etc., etc.

ARRIVING FRESHMAN COEDS, as yet unaware of the fact that they have to stay in Bostwick for their first year, give one of the girls a hand in unloading her baggage from the waiting pick-up truck.

AND SO THE YEAR BEGAN . . .

• On September 11, approximately 460 students converged on Wake Forest to officially begin the 1950-51 scholastic year. Four days later, over seventeen-hundred students had arrived. They represented all the counties of North Carolina, thirty-two states, one territory, and one foreign country.

The new students arrived three days earlier than the others in order to participate in a thorough orientation program that introduced them to the buildings, faculty, courses, and activities. Into the midst of the innocent faces with nameplates, the older students gradually came.

Struggling through a bevy of lost records and lost students, the process of registration followed orientation. There was a shortage of everything from advisers to courses. The former mattered very little, since few students will take advice from anybody. The shortage of courses did matter. Everyone agreed that the college should have more crisp-courses.

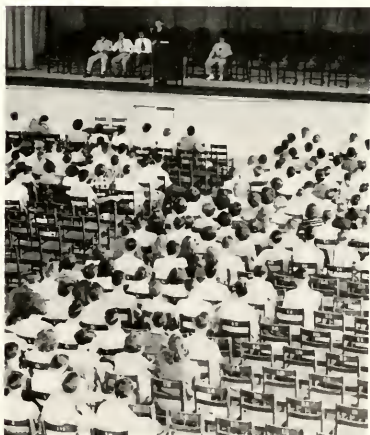

After classes began, students wandered in and out of lectures seeking the elusive quality point courses. There just were not enough such courses to go around. Many students straggled into classes several days late. The inconsiderate professors had not waited for them. Such students were far behind the others who could not get behind fast enough.

By the time of the first football game with Boston College, everybody was pretty well behind. The profs raved and ranted, and the students moaned and groaned. The year had really begun.

VOCATIONAL GUIDANCE for the frosh was given in eight different fields. Dr. Coy C. Carpenter, Dean of the Bowman Gray School of Medicine, advised tentative pre-meds.

OFF TO BOSTON! Big Deacon backs Bob Jones, Joe Koch, and Bill Miller played big parts in the fight with the B. C. Eagles.

AN ENTHUSIASTIC group of some 450 freshmen arrived in W. F. on September 11th to begin a three day orientation period.

Classes

"As Fresh we adore her" — Classes at daybreak — Short stories from Sharty's — Week-long pep rallies for Caroline; no Chee — Parallels the night before — Take out a sheet of paper — Who was Blspxnk? — No letter today — Come on and yell! — Will I be drafted? — Long-winded chapel speakers — Square dance tonight; six boys per girl — Pops — No smoking — "As sophs we explore her" — No cuts left — Money from home; movies tonight — Monday classes after dance weekend — "Skinny" will retire this year — Civic music concerts — Exam schedule up yet? — The Thing — The "Wheels" — Collecting bugs for biology — Kick Springs? what's that? — "As juniors patrol her" — Quality prints — Are you a veteran? — Lost my books — A Coke between classes — Rain again! — Pulling leg — It will be a very simple test — I'll do it tomorrow — Do I need a major? — "As seniors extol her" — Graduation — Wedding invitations — Mortar, beard and parchment — Four years is a long time.

CLASS OFFICERS for the Class of 1950-51 are: President, Sterling Gates; Vice-President, Brooks Gilmore; and Secretary-Treasurer, Harry Wright.

THE SENIOR CLASS

• The graduating class of 1951 was slightly smaller than the one preceding it, but had around 400 members. Many of them had to leave during the year for the armed services, and others were scheduled to leave after graduation.

The class was prominent in all phases of student activity. Bob Auffarth, Carroll Blockerby, Ston Najeway, Jack Mueller, Charlie Kersh, Harry Nicholas, and Dick VanderClute were some of the familiar names in sports; Paul Williams, Marcella Read, Brooks Gilmore, and Carol Oldham were leading scholars while Jack Overman guided fraternity affairs, and Charles Billings and George Spence were tops in dramatics. Jewell Livingstone, Carol Oldham, Dave Clark, and Betty Isbell edited student publications, and Harriet Smith and Cree Deane were co-ed leaders.

SOPHOMORES

CLASS OFFICERS elected by the class of 1953 are: President, Bob Gibson; Vice-President, Jack Lewis; and Secretary-Treasurer Bill White.

• The class of 1953 wasted no time in acquiring a prominent place on the campus. The members of the second-year class played a major part in the affairs of the college and showed promise in all phases of campus activity.

Carol Moore, Peggy Earp, Don Pearce, Libbie Lou Allen, and Norwood Pope were prominent sophomores on publications row. Clara Ellen Francis, Wiley Mitchell, Virgil Moorefield, Graham Weathers, Joe Mauney in speech, Jean Johnson, Hugh Pearson, and Sunny Snyder in dramatics, and Tom Mezger, Mary Lide, and Brightie White in religious work were a few of the many members of the class that achieved prominence on the campus. Bill Tomlinson was a crowd favorite as drum major and Jack Lewis, Jack Rogers, Bob Gaano, Guido Scarton, Frank Wehner, and Larry Spencer led a host of soph sports stars. The class was swiftly claiming its share of campus honors.

FRESHMEN

• The class of 1954 came to the campus in the fall and was often compared with the grass on the campus. The grass was still very green at that time of the year, but the frosh quickly adapted themselves to the ways of the campus and ardently went to work.

The freshmen had a successful year and indicated that they would carry the Gold and Black high for the next three years. Sonny George, Mayo Waggoner, Joe White, Willard Leach, Bruce Hillenbrand, Fred Matthews, Billy Liles, and Jack Wallace were some of the prominent frosh athletes in the fall. Jerry Sutherland and Eleanor Geer established themselves as outstanding actors. Dennis Spear, Betty Holliday, Bill Greene, and Fred Upchurch on publications row and Glenn Garrison in forensics were prominent. Others that distinguished themselves as student leaders were Jim Bland, Joe Durham, Gene Boyce, and Delia Aycock. Sally Umstead was selected as the campus "Esquire Girl."

CLASS OFFICERS elected by the class of 1954 are: James Bland, President; Craig Blackburn, Vice-President; and Gene Boyce, Secretary-Treasurer.

CARROLL W. WEATHERS, B.A., LL.B., Dean of the School of Law, served during his first year, 1950-51, with efficiency and success.

EDGAR W. TIMBERLAKE, JR., B.A., LL.B., Professor of Law.

DR. I. BEVERLY LAKE, B.S., LL.B., LL.M., S.J.D., Professor of Law, DR. ROBERT E. LEE, B.S., M.A., LL.B., S.J.D., Professor of Law, WILLIAM C. SOULE, B.S., LL.B., LL.M., Associate Professor of Law.

LAW FACULTY

• Dean Carroll W. Weathers headed the Wake Forest Law School this year for the first time. Dean Weathers, a former trustee of the college and a prominent Raleigh attorney for many years, came to Wake Forest in the fall to assume the position left vacant by the resignation of Dr. Robert E. Lee last year. Dr. Lee is continuing in the capacity of Professor of Law.

Dr. I. Beverly Lake, Professor of Law, was granted a leave of absence at the close of the fall semester to accept a government appointment as Assistant to the General Counsel of the National Production Authority. The staff added Mr. Edward G. Riggs to fill the vacancy.

At the beginning of the year, the School of Law added two instructors and a librarian to its force. The instructors were Mr. Leonard S. Powers and Mr. Samuel Behrends, a recent graduate of the Wake Forest School of Law. Miss Catherine Poschal joined the staff as Law Librarian.

IN RECOGNITION OF

• Edgar W. Timberlake, Jr. has been associated with Wake Forest College for more than fifty years and has distinguished himself in the field of legal education. After taking a Bachelor of Arts degree from the college in 1901, Professor Timberlake went on to the University of Virginia where he received the Bachelor of Law degree in 1905. He returned to Wake Forest in 1906 to serve as Associate Professor of Law for three years and as Professor of Law since that time. He was also dean of the college from 1919 through 1922.

SAMUEL BEHREND, JR., B.A., LL.B., Assistant Professor of Law.

EDWARD G. RIGGS, B.A., LL.B., LL.M., Assistant Professor of Law.

• Filling a year already jammed with moot court sessions and long hours of studying, the Third Year class found time to participate in a district contest questioning the responsibility of the government to property owners for damage caused by artificial rainfall experiments. The Wake Forest team, John Matthis, Leroy Robinson, and J. B. Scott defeated the Duke team to win out in this district. In a mock Supreme Court session held in Washington, D. C., they were defeated by the University of Virginia.

For those confronted by the possibility of being drafted, State Bar examinations were given in March. Consequently, most of the class spent most of their waking hours pouring over State laws and principles of legal procedure. Later in the spring, several members of the class went to Washington to participate in a law seminar sponsored by Lamar Caudle, Assistant Attorney General.

CLASS OFFICERS are John S. Gardner, Lumberton, Secretary-Treasurer; William A. Taylor, Buie's Creek, President; and Joe Mull, Shelby, Vice-President.

• Work began in earnest for the members of the second year class as they concentrated on the principles of constitutional law, the nature of laws governing corporations, and legal problems concerning labor organizations. With an eye towards the next year when they would have to present their cases before moot court, the second year men kept a watchful eye on the procedures of the mock sessions at which third year students presented cases while learned judges presided.

Elections were held in the fall, and J. C. Keeter, Robert Leatherwood, and John Hardy were selected to head the class. Scholastically, such men as Gerald White, Robert Jones, and Edgar Bridges stood at the top of the class.

CLASS OFFICERS are Robert Leatherwood, Bryson City, vice-president; J. C. Keeter, Edenton, president; John Hardy, Baltimore, Maryland, secretary-treasurer.

• First year students in the Law School quickly learned that hard work was the order of the day, and many long, weary hours were spent pondering the intricacies of contract law, criminal law, and legal ethics. Night sessions of moot court imparted valuable lessons in court-room procedure, and at the same time, provided a source of entertainment for those weary of books.

The beginning class, being small in number, more than made up for its small size by being outstanding in scholastic achievement. Lonnie Williams captured top scholastic honors. Outstanding in the field of leadership were Ed Christman and Bill Mitchell. Christman is active in Literary Society work, and Mitchell is outstanding in Little Theater and W/FDD activities.

CLASS OFFICERS are Edward J. Tenney, Pittsboro, secretary; James Sizemore, Erwin, treasurer; Adrian Wiggins, Burlington, president; Thomas East, Franklinton, vice-president.

OFFICERS, seated: J. C. Keeter, second vice-president; Leroy Robinson, president; William A. Taylor, vice-president; standing: Adrian Wiggins, third vice-president; Donald Brock, secretary; James Sizemore, treasurer.

WAKE FOREST STUDENT BAR ASSOCIATION

The Student Bar Association under the guidance this year of President LeRoy Robinson, performed well the traditional function of maintaining the "honor and dignity of the legal profession among law students."

During the fall semester, the Association sponsored a Wake Forest team in the National Bar Association Contest. This team, composed of LeRoy Robinson, John Matthis, and J. B. Scott, won the regional contest at Duke University but were eliminated in Washington, D. C.

The Association also sponsored the annual session of "The Supreme Court of Wake" with such notables as Clyde Douglass, Jr., and Judge John J. Burney presiding.

SCANNING THE PAPERS for the accounts of current trials in the North Carolina Superior Courts is a popular pastime in the law library. Hardy, Clark, Beam and Walker are second-year men.

MOOT COURTS are one of the most vital phases in the training of young lawyers. Prominent jurists from all parts of the state preside over these sessions as potential lawyers argue their cases.

CHRISTMAS DECORATIONS present something of a problem to Snuff Green, but with the capable kibitzing of Adviser Dr. Lake, Stewart Curtis, Hugh Edens and Bill Fleming, he seems to have things pretty well under control. The tree wound up as part of the decorations for the annual Phi Alpha Delta Social.

• Phi Alpha Delta law fraternity was founded in 1898 at the Chicago College of Law, and the Edgar W. Timberlake Chapter was established in 1947 at Wake Forest College. A comparatively new member of an old fraternity, the local chapter has expanded each year to become an integral facet of the law school.

The two most industrious members within the ranks of the 1950-51 edition of P.A.D. were Gerald White and Leroy Robinson.

Active participation in virtually every phase of intramural athletics characterized the group. Their adeptness was prevalent during basketball season as was evidenced when the boys finished second in the independent league.

In March, the lodge was host to the Twelfth District Conclave of Phi Alpha Delta fraternities. Dean Carroll Weathers of the law school, Judge John Burney, and State Senator John Larkins were initiated as honorary members into the order. Addresses by Federal Judge Johnson J. Hayes and Secretary of State Thad Eure highlighted the two-day meeting.

Essential to the year's success was the leadership of Don Brock, magister, Joe Evans, exchequer, and Gerald White, clerk; Jim Brooks, historian.

AN EVENING'S RELAXATION after a hard day at their books is enjoyed by Hugh Edens, Wilton Walker, Stewart Curtis, and Donald Jones. The topic of conversation, naturally, is constitutional law.

A LAZY AFTERNOON on the sunny steps of the Phi Alpha Delta house takes the boys away from their studies. Seated are Bill McFarland, Dave Braswell, Dick Bailey, Donald Greene, Robert Leatherwood. Standing are Walter Cashwell and Laey Hair.

• Phi Delta Phi legal fraternity is represented on the campus of Wake Forest College by Ruffin Inn. The local chapter was installed in 1947, succeeding Phi Beta Nu, a local legal order.

Emphasis placed on scholarship resulted in the winning of the law school Scholarship Award once again. The fraternity as a whole maintained a high "B" for all work undertaken. Leading the scholars were Jim Webster, Derb Carter, and Lannie Williams. Williams, a first year man, posted one of the highest averages in law school history.

The social event considered the most outstanding of those presented during the year was the spring initiation held in conjunction with Vance Inn of Carolina, and Hughes Inn of Duke. Picnics and informal parties jotted the social calendar throughout the year.

Under the tutelage of Athletic Director Buddy Beam, the Phi Delta Phi men had another banner year. Last year the chapter won the school intramural athletic cup. In 1950-51, the lodge was a leading contender for the coveted trophy. PDP captured the first six places in the golf tournament, and picked up two of the top places in the tennis competition. Perhaps the most satisfactory event of the intramural activity was the 27-0 victory posted on the rival legal fraternity, Phi Alpha Delta.

Officers for the year were: James Webster, Magister; Dick Clark, Exchequer; Jim Williams, Clerk; and Bob Broughton, Historian.

THE ENDLESS BULL session in front of Ruffin Inn is the favorite form of recreation of the members of Phi Delta Phi. Derb Carter, James Webster, Frank Gray and Jap Weeks indulge in a little late afternoon gah.

FRATERNITY SOCIALS are an important phase of Phi Delta Phi life, for it is here that professor meets student in a less formal atmosphere. After their weekly meeting, Professor Powers lingers to visit with Bill Hough, Clyde Randolph, and Jack Hooks.

PROF. LEONARD POWERS, Adviser, began his first year at Wake Forest this year, and lost no time making friends on the campus with students like Charlie Williams, Ruffin Inn golfer, Bob Blackwell, and Sam Britt.

ODK FEEDBAG is applied at the College Inn at one of several dinner meetings held by the leadership fraternity. Facing the camera are: Dave Clark, Marion Davis, Paul Williams, Lucius Pullen, and Lloyd Abernethy. With backs to camera are: Bynum Shaw, Dr. John W. Nowell, Bob Auffarth, and Dr. Henry Stroupe.

• Twice each year the eyes of the school turn to a wooden key placed on the circle in front of Wait Hall. On this key are placed the names of men who have proved themselves worthy of recognition by Omicron Delta Kappa, national honorary leadership fraternity. These are the campus leaders who have distinguished themselves in the five phases of campus life—scholarship, publications; speech, music and dramatics; athletics; social and religious activities.

Beta Alpha Circle of North Carolina was headed this year by John Mathis, president, Paul Williams, vice-president, and Wiley Warren, student secretary. Dr. Henry Stroupe served as faculty secretary and treasurer, and Dr. Edgar Folk was faculty adviser.

The fraternity held two banquets during the year in conjunction with Tassels to honor the new members of the organizations. Other activities included a compilation of essential information on student activities for the president of the college, acting as guides for the inauguration of President Tribble, and sponsorship of a Leadership Counseling Program in the spring.

PHI BETA KAPPA

• Phi Beta Kappa, national honorary scholastic fraternity, was founded at the College of William and Mary in 1776. It invites to membership those students who have maintained a high scholastic standing in college. The local chapter included fifty-two such students this year.

In the spring selections this year, the chapter inducted twelve juniors. These were: Charles D. Borham, Paula G. Ballew, Walter Barnard, Ann Jean Blackwelder, Bruce C. Cresson, Ruth Draper, E. P. Ellis, Jr., Dan Fagg, Wade M. Gallant, Jr., Carl Meigs, Robert S. Poole, and Frances J. Westbrook.

Twenty-eight seniors were named for membership including Bill Alexander, Marjorie Botson, E. T. Chondler, Dorothy B. Hilburn, James Johnson, Vann Murrell, Joe F. Newhall, Mrs. Emily Conrad Nichols, J. K. Penry, Dorothy S. Raynor, Henry V. Vick, Conrad Warlick, Ruth Ann Weathers, Clarence E. Williams, Janet Byrd, Harry P. Claus, Jr., George A. WHO'S WHO AMONG STUDENTS IN AMERICAN UNIVERSITIES AND COLLEGES

• Membership in "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges" is purely on honor. The organization holds no meetings and elects no officers. Selections for membership are made by a committee of faculty and student members appointed by the dean.

The names and activities of those selected to membership are published annually at the University of Alabama in a volume containing student leaders from over 600 schools. It aims at giving national recognition to students displaying character, leadership and scholarship.

TASSELS

• Tossels, the Wake Forest honorary leadership society for women, serves the purpose of recognizing those women on the campus who are outstanding in leadership, scholarship, and character. New members are chosen according to a point-system for their extra-curricular activities, as well as their scholastic standing.

Members of Tossels serve in various ways, some of their activities having been to serve as Marshals during the Inauguration of President Tribble and to be in charge of the May Day Tea.

Officers of Tossels for the year were: President, Betty Isbell; Vice-President, Carol Oldham; Secretary-Treasurer, Marjorie Macey.

TASSELS MEMBERS holding informal meeting are Elva Lawrence, Bet Isbell, Marjorie Macey, Miss Marjorie Crisp, Cecyle Arnold, Cree Deane, and Dean Lois Johnson.

THE MONOGRAM CLUB

• The Monogram Club of Wake Forest College is an organization which is made up of athletes which earn the right to wear a letter of the monogram "W." This club consists of boys who have earned their letter in football, basketball, baseball, golf, track, and tennis.

Initiations are held in the fall and spring semesters for those who are eligible for joining this organization.

The officers of the club for 1950-51 were: Wiley Warren, president; Charlie Kersh, vice-president, and Kent Rogers, secretary-treasurer.

There were forty-two active members of the Big W club who lent their prestige and talent to the success of the group as a whole. They are: Football, Bob Aufarth, Carroll Blackerby, Ed Butler, Jim Garry, Carl

First row: Jennings Agner, Doyle Bedsole, Paul Bennett, Fred Billups, Alton Brooks, Ed Butler. Second row: Dave Clark, Clifford Corey, Max Craig, Joe Fulghum, Buck Geary, Carl Haggard. Third row: John Hammack, Paul Harris, Everett Henry, Ray Jones, Charlie Kersh, Luther King. Fourth row: Gene Mills, Stan Najeway, Kent Rogers, Leonard Small, Wiley Warren, Paul Williams, Woodrow Wrenn.

ALPHA EPSILON DELTA

- The North Carolina Gamma Chapter of Alpha Epsilon Delta, national honorary pre-medical fraternity, firmly established itself this year as one of the leading groups on the campus by its valuable service.

Projects for the year included sponsorship of atomic exhibits, bringing the X-ray unit to the campus, a cancer education program, lectures by prominent speakers, and development of the pre-medical library.

The fraternity initiated four outstanding leaders during the year. These were Dr. Thurman D. Kitchin, Dr. Harry B. Miller, and Dr. C. C. Carpenter and Dr. H. M. Vann of Bowman Gray School of Medicine.

Joe Newhall served as president of the group with Dr. Budd Smith as faculty adviser. Brooks Gilmore was named most outstanding pre-medical student for the year.

ALPHA PSI OMEGA

- The Theta Omega cast of Alpha Psi Omega, honorary dramatic arts fraternity, has as its purpose the recognition of outstanding individual contributions to dramatics on the campus and the presentation of dramatics of high quality at Wake Forest. The requirements for membership are rigid, for one must have participated in every phase of dramatic endeavor including acting and directing, lighting and staging, properties, make-up and costumes, and business and publicity.

It was with the support of this group that such outstanding dramatic offerings as "Othello," "Cyrano de Bergerac," "Winterset," and "Macbeth" were enjoyed on this campus. Other than the regular productions of the year were two one act plays which were presented before the entire student body in chapel. First semester officers were Bud Grainger, Charles Billings, Sonny Burroughs, and Cecyle Arnold. Officers for the second semester were Charles Billings, Betty Jo Ring, and Sunny Snyder.

DELTA SIGMA PI

- Delta Sigma Pi, International Fraternity, is represented locally by the Gamma Nu Chapter. The fraternity encourages scholarship and mutual advancement in the field of business by research and practice.

Among the various projects of the year have been two industrial tours, one to the Chesterfield Plant in Durham, and one to the R. J. Reynold's Tobacco Company and the P. H. Hanes Knitting Company in Winston-Salem.

The chapter sponsored a dance in the fall which was held jointly with the Delta Sigma Pi Chapter at Carolina. In the spring a "Rose of Delta Sig Dance" was held, honoring Gamma Nu's Rose of Delta Sig, Miss Fairlee Dark.

James Green, Dowd Davis, Prof. Herbert Dimmock, Dave Herring, Charlie Pearce, Bach Sellers, Allen Ellen, Dr. Hermon Parker, Hubert Owen, B. C. West, Dr. W. E. Spears, Bill Moffitt.

THE PHYSICS CLUB

- The Physics Club was reorganized this year by students who were interested in physics and wanted to discuss topics in this field with others of like interest. The group established the promotion of greater interest in physics as its objective.

Membership in the club is by invitation only. To become an associate, a student must be taking a course in lower bracket physics. Full membership is attained when the student begins upper bracket work in this field.

Under the leadership of President Dave Herring this year, the club sponsored the annual Physics Fair held by the physics department in May. Others assisting Herring in the affairs of the organization were Hubert Owens, vice-president; Charles Pierce, secretary; and James Greene, treasurer.

PHI EPSILON KAPPA

- Phi Epsilon Kappa, honorary fraternity for men students majoring in health and physical education, was very active during the year. The organization was led in the fall semester by Corroll Blackerby and in the spring by Jack Overman. Lee Rhodes and Harry Jackson served as secretary and treasurer respectively.

Projects for the year included two successful clinics in basketball and baseball for high school principals, players, and coaches from all parts of the state. The participants were advised on fundamentals, team play, and officiating. The fraternity also sponsored lectures on the campus by sports authorities.

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS CLUB

• The International Relations Club meets once a week to discuss international and domestic affairs of note. This year the programs included such topics as Franco-Spain, Russian Foreign Policy, Modern France, and French Indo-China. The club also held its annual banquet and had several dinner meetings.

Robert King served as president in the fall semester with Johnny Parker as vice-president. Thomas Clark and Joe West held these offices in the spring.

BETA BETA BETA

• The Beta Rho chapter of Beta Beta Beta, national honorary biological fraternity, carried out a broad program this year that was very profitable to its members. Projects undertaken included a study of radio-active materials in relation to plant life, the founding of a biological museum, the labeling of the trees on the campus, and the construction of an aquarium.

In addition to these projects, the group had outstanding guest and student speakers at each of its regular meetings. The chapter also held its annual banquet honoring the faculty.

The regional convention was held this year in Rock Hill, S. C. and the fraternity sent a delegation to exchange ideas with other chapters in this area.

Officers for the year were Calvin Smith, president, Mary Reynolds, vice-president, Joe Newhall, secretary, James Kelly, historian; Betty Hawks, social chairman; and Dr. B. E. Smith served as faculty adviser.

SIGMA PI ALPHA

• Sigma Pi Alpha, national honorary modern language fraternity, held two meetings a month under the leadership of President Vernon Wall.

The group heard several local and guest speakers on literary topics. Some of these were: Dr. J. C. O'Flaherty, Stanley G. Turner, Mrs. Marvin Webb, Faculty Adviser R. J. Watts, Miss Lucy Ann Neblitt of Cuba and Meredith College, and Miss Hellen Randon of Estonia and Raleigh.

KAPPA MU EPSILON

- The Math Club was organized in 1948 by a group of advanced students in mathematics for the purpose of recognizing students with high scholarship, promoting interest in and studying mathematics as an indispensable aid to the advancement and development of civilization. The Math Club became the North Carolina Alpha Chapter of Kappa Mu Epsilon, National Honorary math fraternity, on January 12, 1951.

The fraternity was led this year by President Harry Wright and Professor Roland G. Gay, faculty adviser.

GAMMA SIGMA EPSILON

- Gamma Sigma Epsilon emphasizes the promotion and recognition of scholarship in chemistry. This year the fraternity, under the leadership of Grand Alchemist Luther Dunn, held meetings twice monthly, featuring guest speakers. The fraternity's activities included a field trip to Burlington Mills in March.

Dr. C. S. Black, a national officer of the fraternity, was designated Grand Keeper of the Cult. The national fraternity held a bi-annual meeting in Chattanooga, Tennessee. Wake Forest delegates were Luther Dunn and Tammy Hall.

A worthy project sponsored by the group is the offering of a Scholarship Award to the freshman chemistry student with the highest average.

Officers were: Grand Alchemist, Luther Dunn; Visor, J. C. Saunders; Recorder, H. V. Vick.

DELTA KAPPA ALPHA

- Delta Kappa Alpha, honorary ministerial fraternity, was led by Fred Billups in the fall term and Wilson Stewart in the spring. Dr. Marc Lovelace and Dr. G. J. Griffin were the faculty advisers.

Two of the major events of the fall were programs which featured talks by Dr. Russell L. Dicks, of Duke Divinity School, on "Pastoral Care," and by Dr. James Satterwhite, of Bowman Gray School of Medicine, on "Foreign Missions in Japan." In the spring DKA met in Dr. and Mrs. Griffin's home for a fellowship meeting.

DKA's membership consists of those upper-classmen pre-ministerial students who plan to do further work toward the Christian Ministry, and who have maintained at least a "B" average.

PI KAPPA DELTA

• Pi Kappa Delta is the largest national honorary forensic fraternity. It seeks to recognize students who are outstanding in inter-collegiate forensics. Members are selected for excellence in debating, oratory, impromptu, extemporaneous, and after-dinner speaking.

Five members attended the National Convention this year at Oklahoma A and M in Stillwater, Oklahoma. Those attending were Lucius Pullen, president; Cecyle Arnold, vice-president; Elva Lawrence, secretary; Wiley Mitchell and Virgil Moorefield. The delegation was accompanied by Professor Franklin R. Shirley, faculty adviser and governor of the southeastern district.

Front row: Prof. Franklin Shirley, C. Arnold, L. W. Pullen, E. Lawrence, A. Kelly, Prof. A. L. Aycock. Back row: V. Moorefield, W. Mitchell, D. Clark.

ALPHA KAPPA PSI

• Alpha Kappa Psi, national business fraternity, strives to bring the business student into contact with the problems and questions with which he will be faced in the modern business world.

An active organization, the local chapter made several tours including the Liggett-Myers tobacco plant in Durham and the Erwin cotton mill. Industrial movies were shown to the group and outstanding businessmen were heard throughout the year. The fraternity also sent representatives to the World Trade Conference. Several social functions including a Founder's Day banquet were held.

Officers were Charles Parnell, president; Bill Golding, vice-president; Bill Smith, secretary; Bill Wilder, treasurer; and A. D. Wilson, historian.

ETA SIGMA PHI

• Eta Sigma Phi is the honorary fraternity of the classical languages, Greek and Latin. The purpose of the fraternity is to recognize those outstanding students in either of the classical languages and to further an interest in classical studies.

The group was efficiently led through the year by President Troy Bennett and Fred Billups, Vice-President.

THE HEALTH AND PHYSICAL EDUCATION DEPARTMENT

• The Department of Physical Education is one of the largest and most popular departments on campus. The department offers a minor in the field of recreation as well as a major in health and physical education.

An intramural program in the following activities are offered for both men and women: basketball, volleyball, football, baseball, softball, speedball, gymnastics, tumbling, badminton, tennis, golf, rhythms, archery, handball, soccer, hockey, and swimming. All students are encouraged to participate in these activities, with the Athletic Department providing the facilities.

The recreation classes have sponsored several projects during the year for both student and community recreational purposes. These projects have included such events as a Thanksgiving turkey shoot, a talent show, square dance, a Christmas parade, skating parties, sports "days," and recreation nights in the gym.

COACH JIM WEAVER, popular athletic director and former football coach, has served in his present capacity since 1937. Under his direction, the physical education department has been greatly enlarged.

COACH JIM LONG, assistant director of physical education came to Wake Forest in 1946. He is also director of the intramural athletic program.

COACH HAROLD BARROW, assistant professor of physical education, has proved his merit in leading the successful 1950-51 freshman basketball team. He has been connected with Wake Forest College since 1948.

MARJORIE CRISP, instructor in physical education for women since 1947. DOROTHY CASEY, instructor in physical education, is assistant to Miss Crisp.

INTRAMURALS

• The voluntary athletic program at the college was supervised by Coach Jim Long this year, Intramural Director. Assisting Coach Long were Roger Warren, Intramural Manager, and the Intramural Athletic Council.

Throughout the year, intramural tournaments were conducted in touch football, golf, horseshoes, tennis, volleyball, basketball, handball, table tennis, badminton, and softball.

Competition was keen as usual for the awards which are annually presented to the winners in these activities. Rotating trophies were presented to the winners in team sports, and championship medals were awarded to winners in the individual sports tournaments. In addition the coveted Intramural Grand Championship Trophy was awarded to the team amassing the most points in the entire intramural program.

INTRAMURAL ATHLETIC COUNCIL meeting is conducted by President Everette Henry. Other members included here are Doyle Bedsole, Sterling Gates, Bob Auffarth, and Kent Rogers.

PASSER FLOYD looks for a receiver in championship game of 1950. Rushed hard, he is given protection by Jim Ellis and Jennings Agner.

VOLLEYBALL CHAMPIONS for 1950 who represented Hunter Dorm are: Ray Williams, Addison Howard, Freddy Poston, Stan Najeway, Al Deporter, Al McCotter, Billy Mason, John Kotecki, and Al Black.

• The PiKA, KA and Hunter Intramural teams led the campus fraternity and independent grid loops, with the PiKA fraternity standing victor after a tight season. Hunter Dorm and the PAD legal fraternity battled it out among the independents, with Hunter tallying a win over the lawyers. The PiKA's earned a victory over the battling Tau Knights to win the fraternity championship. The frat champions spilled Hunter Dorm to remain undefeated throughout the season.

In edging out the Alpha Sigs, the KA Rebel cagers copped the fraternity league championship, and advanced to meet the Black Cats in the finals. The Black Cats, after taking a commanding lead over the PAD legal fraternity, won the championship for the independent league. Top scorers for the Black Cats, Earl Parker, Bo Medlin, and Larry Spencer, failed to halt Rebel scorers Howard Twiggs, Jack Lewis and Sterling Gates.

BASKETBALL CHAMPS smiling after they won the campus cage title. Kappa Alphas, they are: Cedric Davis, Manager, Dave Clark, Boyd Gwynn, J. L. Peeler, and Coach Paul Harris, Back row: Sterling Gates, Howard Twiggs, Jack Lewis, Paul Williams, and Ned Davis.

INDEPENDENT LEAGUE FOOTBALL winners were these representatives also from Hunter Dorm. Pictured outside Hunter are: Ray Lipstas, Herman Allen, Alton Brooks, Billy Mason, John Kotecki, Al Black, Dick Jones, Addison Howard, and Ray Williams.

GETTING INTO SHAPE for intramurals always poses a problem for would-be athletes since Gore Gym is always booked for practices.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION FOR WOMEN

• The physical education department for women is increasing each year. A more diversified program is now being offered, however it is somewhat limited due to the lack of space. Only two semester hours of physical education are required of all coeds. In this required program the girls study the fundamental skills and rules of the many athletics offered on the campus. After a coed has met her requirement, she may then specialize in any sports such as badminton, golf or tennis during her remaining school terms. Activities included in the physical education program are: Shuffleboard, modern dance, square dance, speedball, folk dance, tap dance, table tennis, tennis, hockey, basketball, volleyball, badminton, tumbling and gymnastics, and swimming.

DEADEYE DOWIS, sometimes called Happy, demonstrates the perfect form for coeds interested in beans and arrows.

CO-ED SOFTBALL is a favorite sport with the lady Deacons who participate in intramurals, as it is with the football players who play on the adjacent athletic fields.

COED INTRAMURALS

• The intramural program for the coeds is one of the most important parts of the total physical education program. Through this program, opportunities arise for the coeds to learn new games and sports and to improve their skills in the more familiar ones. No student is required to participate in these activities. The program is provided for recreational purposes, and all girls are urged to participate. Tournaments are played off in the many sports, and an athletic plaque is awarded to the team controlling the winning position. At the conclusion of the intramural season, a banquet is held and trophies are awarded to the coeds who have won the individual sports tournaments.

The Woman's Recreation Association is a campus organization open to all coeds. The purpose of W.R.A. is to provide recreational opportunities for the women students and to stimulate a friendlier atmosphere. One of its most important projects this year has been that of developing a recreation room in the attic of Johnson Dormitory.

Cookouts, picnics, hikes, special parties, weekend outings, and square dances are other activities which are sponsored by W.R.A. The most outstanding event the W.R.A. sponsors is the Magnolia Festival with the coronation of the Magnolia Queen.

MODERN DANCE class, which develops poise, grace, self-control, and interprets the abstract meaning in dance, is represented by experts Gerry Turner and Jo Hunter.

WOMEN'S VARSITY VOLLEYBALL team was composed of outstanding coed players: Walker, Turner, McAfee, Dickens, Smith, Johnson, Hunter, Mahoney, Dougall, Saunders, Hart, and Kelly.

BASKETBALL remained popular as a woman's sport as shown by pic of girls' team scrapping for ball in an intramural game.

TUMBLING TEAM which was newly formed in 1950-51, has many versatile stars who submit themselves to bearing almost anything. The team performed for Carolina and Dix Hill.

IN THE GYMNASIUM . . . Tumbling, Fencing, Handball, Weight-lifting

• This was the first year in the existence of Wake Forest College Gymnastic and Tumbling Team, but from all reports, they have come a long way and have established themselves as one of the best in the state, especially the girls in the squad.

This team, which gave exhibitions at Carolina and for the patients at the State Institution of Dix Hill, was given high praise by the experts over at Chapel Hill. This year's squad, coached by Miss Dorothy Casey, a graduate of Woman's College, took third place in the talent show at Carolina held this past December.

Members include John Dickson, Doyle Bedsale, Jack Manley, Ben Philbeck, Virginia Johnson, Eleanor Kraft, Jo Hunter and Gerry Turner.

FENCING TEAM, brain-child of Professor Helm, is composed of Ann Kelly, Nancy Morris, Dovie Morrison, Betsy Valentine, Jasper L. Memory, Jr., Coach Bobby Helm, Al Propst, and Jim Kaltreider.

FLYING THROUGH the air without the trapeze is Ben Philbeck, in whom Gerry Turner, Jenny Johnson, Eleanor Kraft, and Doyle Bedsole appear to place implicit trust.

HANDBALL, a swift and popular game, keeps baseball players Kent Rogers, Junie Floyd, Ralph Brown, and Jack Rogers in condition.

BACK ARCHES by Eleanor Kraft, supported by Doyle Bedsole, and by Jenny Johnson, supported by Ben Philbeck. Gerry Turner exhibits a back-bend.

STRONG MAN James Bland employs technique learned in the Weight-Lifting organization.

DOUGLAS C. WALKER, Head Football Coach, synonymous with Deacon football for the past 14 years.

ERNEST McKENZIE, able trainer of all Demon Deacon athletic teams.

PAT PRESTON, T-formation expert and popular line coach, was one of the most valuable men on the five-man Deacon coaching staff. WALTER (BABE) WOOD, formerly of the University of Maryland, was an effective back-field coach. BOBBY BLACKWELL, a victim of the Carolina game, was a capable manager of the '50 Deacon squad.

PEAHEAD REVIEWS . . .

• The Deacon Football squad had one of the best records ever racked up by a Wake Forest grid squad. The success may be attributed in large measure to Head Coach Douglas Clyde "Peahead" Walker, who concluded a fourteen year tenure at Deacon Hollow this year. Before leaving to accept his new job as assistant coach at Yale University, Coach Walker reviewed the season of the 1950 Deacon team that captured the Big Four title.

Walker recalled that the entire squad was a well coordinated unit, and that this was probably the main factor contributing to the winning ways of the club. He referred to the gridders as "a balanced, well-rounded squad with reserves playing a key part."

The colorful "Peahead" gave much credit for the victorious squad to his efficient staff of assistant coaches. He complimented the work of Coach Tom Rogers with the line that was one of the best defensive units in the nation. Walker also pointed to the valuable assistance of Coaches Pat Preston and Walter "Babe" Wood in molding the unit.

Lamenting the single loss and the two ties of the season, Walker emphasized the fact that "extra-points were our main trouble. We lost one game because of them. If we had kicked them all, we would've had an undefeated season with the exception of a tie." The Deacs dropped one game to Clemson by a 13-12 score and was tied by N. C. State 6-6.

Looking over the entire season, Walker added, "It was a great season, featured by fine defensive play by the entire team. We did not have a punt blocked or a pass intercepted and run back for a touchdown. Our offense was strong enough to control the ball and keep it from our opponents most of the time. The team had great spirit, which accounts for the fine record made."

W. F. - BOSTON COL.

• Opening the 1950 gridiron season with an inexperienced line but a talent-packed backfield, the Baptists faught to a 7-7 tie with the Eagles of Boston College although the Deacs held the edge in statistics. First night jitters handicapped the Walkermen considerably, especially in scoring territory. Wake Forest had three opportunities to tally but could capitalize on only one. It was Nub Smith who set up the score after an 18 yard sprint to the Boston 1. Fullback Bill Miller crashed the line for the six points and Smith converted. Jim Staton and Bob Auffarth were pillars in the Wake Forest forward wall throughout the night.

• The first game of the season played in Wake Forest's Graves Stadium proved successful as the powerful Deacs easily rolled to a 43-0 triumph over the Richmond Spiders in an offensive onslaught with thrills galore. Quarterback Ed Kissell, filling in at the field general spot for ailing Blockerby and Davis, was the main feature in the conquest with his superb passing and smooth ball-handling. The win came as a wedding gift for Coach Walker, and his gridders were in great form in every phase of football warfare. Scoring for the Deacs were Guido Scarton with two touchdowns, Ed Butler, Bill Miller, Luther King, Nub Smith, and Bob Jones. Three of the Baptist tallies came as results of passes.

• Wake Forest's Deacons showed further evidence of their power in Williamsburg as they trounced the William and Mary Indians 47-0. It was diminutive Guido Scarton who did the majority of the homecoming afternoon's classy running. Coach Walker unloaded the bench after the first quarter and each platoon he tried proved to be a success. Big Bill Miller crashed the Indian line for two tallies, Scarton scooted ends for a brace, Spencer raced 40 yards for one, while Morris and Butler caught passes for the other two. Ed Kissell kicked five extra-points to give the Baptists an improvement in this department. The play of the line was exceptional with every man a standout.

• A capacity crowd watched Wake Forest roll unbeaten as they posted a storybook finish to defeat the Tar Heels from Carolina 13-7 in the final nine seconds of a hard fought battle. Quarterback Dickie Davis passed to end Ed Butler to give the Baptists their fourth win of the season and a shot at the conference title. Larry Spencer intercepted a pass to set up the Wake win. It was then that Davis passed 45 yards to Butler for the dramatic win. Scorton, Miller, Kissell, Staton, and Lewis were the other big guns in the fourth win of the season.

• Pressure of an undefeated schedule thus far was noticeable as the Deacons eked out a 13-0 Homecoming victory over the Colonials. The outstanding player was sophomore Larry Spencer, who intercepted an Andy Davis pass when the Colonials were on the march, and raced from his own 23 to score the second Wake tally. The first was made by Guido Scorton. Tackle Jim Staton spent most of the afternoon in the Colonials' backfield while once again the Rogers-coached Deacon line was impenetrable.

W. F. - CLEMSON

12 - 13

• Two undefeated elevens met in a tussle-up in Bowman Gray Stadium in Winston-Salem where the Deacons encountered the Tigers from Clemson College. It was the South Carolinians who emerged victorious by a 13-12 score. The Deacs muffed several opportunities to score early in the game, but Bill Miller came through with three successive line plunges and the first Wake Forest tally in the fourth quarter. Later in the same period, Davis pitched to Ed Butler, Jack Lewis, and again to Butler for the final Wake marker.

W. F. - DUKE

13 - 7

• For the third straight year the Demon Deacons dealt a severe blow to Duke Blue Devil hopes by posting a 13-7 win over the Durham school. The Deacs scored early in the game on a sustained seventy-yard march climaxed by a five-yard plunge by Guido Scarton. The try for the placement was wide. In the final two minutes before the half ended, Dickie Davis heaved to Jack Lewis who scampered twenty yards for the winning tally. Blackerby was true on the placement.

W. F. - STATE

• The championship of Wake County was played true to form as the Wolfpack came from behind in the last two minutes of play to tie the favored Deacons 6-6. A packed stadium watched as the Baptists fumbled and threw away several scoring chances before racking up their only touchdown. After Jim Staton blocked a State kick, Wake had the ball on the State twenty-two. Several line plays with key blocks enabled Scarton to finally score from the seven-yard line off tackle.

W. F. - S. CAROLINA

14 - 7

• In the final game of the season Wake Forest captured their sixth win by stopping South Carolina in freezing weather by a score of 14-7. Fired to the breaking point and revengeful over last year's loss to the Gamecocks, the Wake ground and air attack was exceptionally potent and the nationally famous defense proved superb in the most impressive win of the season.

SUMMARY

• The 1950 football season was the best for the Wake Forest Demon Deacons in many a season, for the talented Baptists defeated six of nine opponents and were beaten only once. The Deacons gained the honor of being the top team in the nation on total defense and third on rushing defense. It was the first time in over three decades that Coach D. C. Walker's aggregation made a clean sweep of their Big Four rivals, Duke, Carolina, and State. Although a tie with the Wolfpack made it impossible to claim victories over each of them, it is easily said that Wake Forest ruled the Big Four camp this past gridiron year.

Each victory was a team triumph with the line doing superb work for the capable backs. The squad possessed power, speed, weight, intelligence, experience, deception, no squad dissention, and fighting spirit with an unflinching desire to win. The team was made up of seven seniors, twenty juniors, and sixteen sophomores who continuously played hard and clean and performed well as a unit. Spirit was unusually high, for this year more than ever, it appeared that they were playing not only for personal glory, but for Wake Forest College.

Eleven members of the Deac crew were named as honorable mention All-Americans by the Associated Press. Jim Staton received a second team berth on the United Press All-American team while six of his mates received honorable mention by the same association. A number of the players received All-Southern and All-State honors by every polling bureau.

FRESHMAN FOOTBALL

• Under the tutelage of Coach Taylor Sanford, the Wake Forest freshman football team had the distinction of being not only the largest frosh squad in many seasons, but also one of the most talented. Using the two-platoon system, Sanford had four full squads from which to draw starters and reserves.

The Deaclets took wins over the Blue Imps of Duke University, the Wolflets of North Carolina State, and the Papasos of William and Mary. The Gamecocks of the University of South Carolina managed to triumph over the spirited Deacon freshmen.

BASKETBALL

• The 1951 edition of the Wake Forest basketball squad finished their twenty-seven game schedule with a mediocre season although it was one of the most talent-packed aggregations ever assembled on the hardwood at Wake Forest. A well-balanced team wound up the rugged schedule almost evenly balanced in the won-lost columns.

Starting off the season with three straight wins, the Deacs appeared as though they would be the conference darkhorse. The Clemson Tigers were the first to go down in defeat by the score of 66-51. In the next two games the Baptists beat the McCrary Eagles 71-56 and Elon 73-62. Then, travelling to Williamsburg to meet the Indians of William and Mary, Wake Forest was handed its first loss, 71-49. The Deacons had not recovered from that initial defeat when beaten the following week by Hanes' Semi-pro unit, 67-55.

During the Christmas holidays, Coach Murray Greason took his outfit on a tour of Virginia and Pennsylvania. They conquered Washington and Lee and VMI but were edged by West Virginia and Duquesne. The losses were by six points or less to indicate that each of the affairs went all the way down to the wire.

Returning home, Wake Forest entered the Second Annual Dixie Classic held during the Christmas holidays in Raleigh. In the opening round, the Baptists defeated Rhode Island State, but lost to N. C. State and Navy later to place fourth in the entire tournament of eight teams.

Touring westward, the Wakemen took the Enka Rayonites but on the next night lost to the University of Tennessee. Before reappearing at home, they beat a game Appalachian squad and were showing signs of tremendous improvement. In Gore Gym the Deacs whipped the Eagles from McCrary again, this time 77-73 in a thriller.

The Deacs then met their first Big Four opponent, the North Carolina Tar Heels, who came back strong in the second half to win 65-56. Greason's men lost little time in gaining revenge, for they poured it on a highly-rated William and Mary five 72-50. Their first contest against State in regular conference play was lost in the Coliseum after the two had fought it out on even terms in the first phase. The Deacs came back strong to whip Duke in a conference thriller, but Carolina took the measure of the Greasanites a week later. In games with Washington and Lee, South Carolina, State, and Duke, Wake Forest looked exceptionally good as the season ended.

The Deacs lost only Captain Jim Patton from last year's team and were fortunate in having center Al McCotter, forward Stan Najeway, guard Alton Brooks and guard Jack Mueller returning. Forward Charlie Kersh was lost due to ineligibility early in the season which greatly hampered Deac hopes. Reservists who were constantly bolstering the squad and continuously striving for starting berths were Buck Geary, Billy Mason, Paul Bennett, Red Barham, John Katecki, Cliff Corey, Bill Hartley, Norm Muller, Jim Flick and Bill Alheim. Sophs Joe Warren and Tammy Howard left the squad soon after the schedule began.

The scoring punch was led by McCotter, Najeway, Brooks, and Mason. Defensive standouts were Geary, Barham, Mueller, and Hartley. Controlling the backboard play were Katecki, Corey, Mason, and Bennett.

FROSH BASKETBALL

• The freshman mentor, Coach Harold Barrow, had a great deal of all-round talent on the freshman squad. The starting five consisted of Ray Liptas, forward from Camden, New Jersey; Will Leach, center from Baltimore, Maryland; Bill Lyles, Wilson, N. C., guard; Everett Eynon, guard from Washington D. C.; and Jack Williams, a forward from Johnson City, Illinois. Dick Jones, another All-Stater who was slated for a starting guard berth and one of the best cage prospects in Deacon history, was lost to the Armed Services early in the season, as was Tom Choppell, a center. Capable reserves were Maya Waggoner, Gair Allie, Bill Lovingood, Bob Quinn, and Lewis Stevens.

Highlights of the frosh schedule were wins over Duke, Carolina, William and Mary, Campbell College varsity, and Wingate. High scorers for the season were Jack Williams, Ray Liptas, and Billy Lyles. Excelling on defense were Everett Eynon, Gair Allie, and Billy Lyles.

BIG DEACONS are made from freshman participants in the rugged Big Four and Southern Conference contests such as one pictured here in which Guard Billy Lyles lays up a marker for the Baby Deacs. Deac's Ray Liptas moves in from behind.

• Under new Head Coach Taylor Sanford, the 1951 Deacon baseball nine showed plenty of power and ability although they had lost many of their previous stars.

The team represented the United States in the Pan-American games in Buenos Aires, Argentina in February and captured second place honors in the eight nation rankings.

Starting infielders for the year were: Wiley Warren, first base; Jack Stallings, second base; Bob Coluni, shortstop; and Jack Liptak, third base. Alton Brooks and Buddy Wrenn alternated behind the plate. Kay Rogers, Junie Floyd, and Frank Wehner handled the bulk of the outfield duties. Stan Johnson, Max Eller, Don Woodlief, Charlie Kinlaw, Dick McCleney, Norm Schatzel, and Rip Coleman composed the mound staff.

TENNIS

• The tennis team was just another myth and campus rumor this year as was the track team. The team could not be organized due to the manpower shortage created by the Korean War, Selective Service, and enlistments in the Armed Forces. It was the second straight year in which the college failed to muster a squad.

The team began to have troubles at the end of the '49 season with the loss of Coach George Pryor. Johnny Hammack, veteran Wake net star, was placed in charge of assembling a squad at the beginning of school.

The squad started practice early in the year with a good number of likely candidates loosening up for the spring season. After Christmas, the squad was cut in half by loss of participants to various branches of the Armed Forces.

In the spring of the year, the squad had diminished to seven men including lettermen John Hammack, Paul Williams, Lloyd Abernethy, Dave Clark, and candidates Jack Lewis, Paul Bennett, Morris Rozar, and Freddy Poston.

The team was undefeated.

SMASH RETURN is specialty of tense Johnny Hammack, Deacon net star of preceding years. Hammack was scheduled to lead the team again in '51.

TRACK

QUICK START is very important to Deac runners in highly competitive Southern Conference track meets. The four Baptist Hollow sprinters pictured here exerting their best effort for Alma Mammy cinder-squad are: Charlie Wellons, Doyle Bedsole, Boyd Gwynn, and Walter Gibson.

DISCUS-HURLER of mythical track team was Bert Johnston, who is casting the plate in practice.

AL BLACK EXHIBITS bird-like form in clearing the high-hurdles in a practice leap.

• The Wake Forest Track squad took to the Southern Conference cinders with a new coach during the 1951 season, and relied mainly on eight returning lettermen.

Elmer Barbour, former Deacon football star and successful ex-Durham High track mentor, built his small squad around weight man Bert Johnston, field eventers J. R. Maynard and Doyle Bedsale, distance runners Boyd Gwynn, Brightie White, and Bob Gibson, and sprinters Larry Spencer and Billy Mason.

Phil Utley, another Deacon athletic star of former days, physical education instructor, and track coach for many years at Wake Forest, died in June, 1950, leaving the cindermen without a coach until Barbour's late appointment.

Although hampered by limited facilities and lack of experience, the small Wake team showed up extremely well in each of their meets.

BILLY MASON grits his teeth as he crosses the finish line two full yards ahead of straining Boyd Gwynn, his nearest opponent.

GOLF

WINNING GRINS like these displayed by Arnold Palmer and Dick Tiddy are prevalent among Wake Forest golfers.

• The 1950 edition of the Deacon golf team had a lot of talent and ability, but several of the valuable members of former years were missing. The team started off in the spring under a handicap due to loss of several men including the coach to the Armed Forces.

Raymond "Sonny" Harris was the only member of the '50 team to graduate. Early in the fall semester, the team lost Marvin "Buddy" Warsham, dependable number two man of last year, who was killed in an automobile accident.

During the fall of the year the services took their toll of the Southern Conference champion golfers. Arnold Palmer, number one man on last year's squad and top golfer in the Southern Conference for two years, was one of the first to enter the service. Coach Johnny Johnston was also lost to the squad via the Air Forces route. Mickey Gallagher was another of the links stars to enter the service along with capable reserves Bob Yancey and Jennings Agner.

The squad started the '51 season off with Frank Edens, Dick Tiddy, Jim Flick, Hugh Jennings, Russell Tiddy, and Clyde Randolph rounding out the roster. Of the six, only Edens and D. Tiddy had seen extensive action on the varsity. D. Tiddy captured the honor as the longest ball-hitter in the NCAA Tournament at Albuquerque, New Mexico last year.

Although depleted of varsity talent, the returning lettermen and frosh stars formed a contingency that was still outstanding in Southern Conference golfing.

SINK THAT PUTT seems to be the central thought here as Frank Edens eyes the cup with Mickey Gallagher, Arnold Palmer, and Dick Tiddy quietly watching.

HEAD DOWN and a neat follow-through swing serves to carry expert Mickey Gallagher out of a usually difficult position.

In Memory of BUD AND GENE

• Tragedy struck with stunning poignancy on October 22 as the mirth of Homecoming celebrations was suddenly ended by an automobile accident which killed two Wake Forest students Marvin C. (Buddy) Worsham, senior from Cabin John, Maryland, and Gene Scheer, sophomore from Jeffersonville, Indiana, plunged to their deaths early that Sunday morning, while returning to the campus from the Homecoming Dances in Durham.

Both were outstanding Deacon athletes, remembered as "typical of the Wake Forest spirit." Worsham, a brother of Lew Worsham, former National Open Golf Champion, was the number two man on the Wake Forest golf team. Scheer, a prominent guard on last year's freshman basketball team, was a promising prospect for this year's varsity squad.

On Monday morning disconsolate students quietly filled the Chapel for a service in memory of Bud and Gene—loved as persons, admired as athletes. It was at this service that Coach Jim Weaver fittingly observed of them, "Neither was a Hercules, but both had the courage of a David."

THE STUDENT COUNCIL

• The Student Council of 1950-51 was a very industrious one under the capable leadership of Marion "Piggy" Davis and Don Lee Paschal. The primary interest of the Council was the furtherance of the Honor System. An extensive effort was made to eliminate the weaknesses and to insure a more satisfactory system. The committee tried to impress the students with the importance of a workable Honor System. The number of cases tried for cheating this year was less than last year, but was still not as low as had been hoped for by the Council.

The furtherance of the Honor System was not the only interest of the Council. Another function was the meting out of justice to students who violated the Constitution established by the Student Body. Each offender was given a fair trial and either exonerated or placed on probation in accordance with the facts which were established through investigation of the case.

STUDENT BODY prexy Marion J. Davis from Winston-Salem carried out his many duties in an amiable and accommodating manner—which is something of a diplomatic feat. His tasks were performed efficiently and thoroughly.

WOMAN'S GOV'T Association was quietly but effectively led by Harriet Smith from Danville, Va.

WOMAN'S GOVERNMENT ASSOCIATION

• The Woman's Government Association, led by Harriet Smith, was concerned with matters other than discipline and routine life in the girls' dorms, and this year included many activities in their program, in addition to call downs and campuses. Under Happy Dawis, a special committee was in charge of advising the freshman girls, and through the efforts of Betty Hawks, the handbook for the Association was compiled. The active Social Standards Committee, which carried out social activities was an essential part of W.G.A.

A new system of signing out was incorporated during the year by which individual cards were substituted for the old method. Fire Drills were held through the help of Chief Connie Hart. Both dorms showed speed, if reluctance, in tramping out of the dorms after hours. The Council also worked with the Student Council in conducting a Vocational Guidance program in the spring.

FRESHMAN ADVISORY COUNCIL

• This year's Freshman Orientation and Guidance Program left nothing undiscussed or unexplained. Under the direction of Student Chairman Paul Williams and Faculty Chairman J. G. Carroll, the freshmen were orientated concerning all phases of campus life with the capable assistance of student and faculty members of the council.

Parties and receptions were given by the faculty, the

SOCIAL STANDARDS COMMITTEE

• The Social Standards Committee began their activities in presenting the Magnolia Ball of 1950, under the direction of Chairman Cree Deane. With the beginning of school in September, a picnic welcomed the freshmen and transfers. The group also assisted with the Student Council party given for all new students as a part of fall Orientation.

Homecoming was a big event. Both dorms were decorated and open house was held. Johnson dorm won the decorations trophy which was given for the first time this year. A tea-lecture was held in the fall as well as a fashion show, and a Sadie Hawkins Day celebration. Christmas brought a joint-dorm party and Christmas open house after the "Messiah." "Miss Hush" left surprises on doors of cramming coeds.

In the spring semester, the Committee was in charge of a reception after Lucile Cumming's concert. Later, a spring fashion show was planned, and another reception for the pianist on the lecture series was held.

A special project was the conversion of the attic of Johnson into a playroom. The popular idea of Friday night dances was continued throughout the year.

Baptist Student Union, the Young Woman's Auxiliary, the Student Council, and the Social Standards Committee to throw out the welcome mat. A tour of the library, the buildings, tests of aptitude and intelligence, professional guidance, talks by school officials and campus leaders, and honor system orientation all acquainted the new student with life at Wake Forest College.

MRS. RAY GREENE, Student Secretary of the B.S.U., aided the council in coordinating religious activities.

BAPTIST STUDENT UNION

- Primarily the Baptist Student Union is a correlating body for the many religious activities on the campus, but its task goes even further. It attempts to extend Christian ideals and services to all phases of student life.

In addition to its regular tasks, B.S.U. took an active part this year in numerous activities which are not strictly religious in nature, but which gave a real opportunity for Christian action on the campus. Lloyd Abernethy as president and Mrs. Virginia Greene, student secretary, led B.S.U. in a continuous and successful effort to be of greater service on the campus.

HELM'S SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS

SUNDAY SCHOOL

• Sunday School at 9:45 has become a tradition at Wake Forest. Each Sunday morning students gathered in the Religion Building for an opening convocation, after which they went to their individual classes. Members of the faculty served as teachers for the various classes.

The classes were organized before the end of last year so that everything would be in readiness for the orientated freshmen when they began to come over. They came to see what the B.S.U. president was talking about when he spoke to them during the orientation program. Fall attendance was good, and although it gradually dwindled, it remained high for the entire year.

A new class for young married couples was organized after the year began. Professor David Smiley, a recent addition to the faculty, was invited to take charge of the group. The class, called the Wife 'n I class, steadily grew into one of the strongest of all the groups.

Continuing a project instituted the year before, the various Sunday School classes cooperated in serving a pre-Sunday school snack, usually consisting of coffee or cocoa and doughnuts, in the Rec Room. More and more students took advantage of this opportunity.

In the opening convocation, devotional programs of various sorts were presented by students. There were seasonal programs at Thanksgiving and Christmas, and the series on "Christianity and My Profession" was well received. Among the professions treated were law, teaching, journalism, mission work, medicine, and the preaching ministry.

Although the enrollment of the college had fallen off by some three-hundred persons this year, the Sunday School enrollment was maintained at a very high level. The success of the year could be attributed in large part to the capable and interesting teachers, efficient planning by the Baptist Student Union Council, and most of all, to the leadership of President of the Sunday School Harry Wright.

• Christian fellowship was not neglected, for each class had a social in the Rec Room or in the home of the teacher sometime during the year.

Harry Wright showed a great deal of ability as Superintendent of the Sunday School. Ray Frye assisted him as associate superintendent.

Sarah Page Jackson and Max Eller served as presidents in Dr. Smith's class, while Bill Smith and Jimmy Johnson led the Fellowship class, taught by Dr. Rogers and Professor West. In Professor Saule's group, Milton Snyder and Carter Knight were head men. Jim Moore and Francis Chesson presided in Dr. Reid's class, and Floyd Gill and Ben Philbeck were leaders in Professor Chandler's class.

At mid-term, Professor Helm's class moved to the church to include the young men of the community. They held their classes in the Alumni building, and became one of the largest classes in a short time.

First row: Paula Ballew, Dixon Turlington, Elva Lawrence, Rachel Cates. Second row: Tom Mezger, Camp Mason, Ed Elliott, Jack Herring. Third row: Norman Harris, Francis Chesson.

WESTMINSTER FELLOWSHIP

• Methodist and Presbyterian students gathered in the Rec Room every Sunday evening for Westminster Fellowship. This year Hugh Slusser and Hugh Owen led the organization, and Mr and Mrs Herbert Dimmock were Faculty Advisers.

Programs this year centered around a series of discussions on various phases of Christian living and on the beliefs of other denominations. A number of worthy projects were undertaken, such as giving food to needy families in the community at Christmas, and contributing to the World Student Service Fund.

For the first time since its reactivation, the group was represented on the B S U Council.

CANTERBURY CLUB

• Episcopal students on the campus attended Canterbury Club meetings throughout the year at Mrs. Carey Dodd's home. Although their number was small in comparison to that of other denominational groups at Wake Forest, Canterbury Club members were faithful in attendance and in participating in the activities of the club.

Billie Schulken was president for the year, and Gerry Turner served as secretary. The rector of the Lousburg parish advised the local club.

Highlighting the year were the visit of a returned missionary from Panama and the pre-Christmas dinner at the Hen House restaurant.

THE FORUM

• Actually the Forum is one of the Baptist Training Unions, but it is rather unique because of its program method. The union is organized around the theory that real value can be found in studying and discussing matters of vital concern and interest to college men and women in a cooperative manner.

Tom Mezger was the capable leader in the fall term and Camp Mason served in the spring. The Forum has always been rather small, but its value has never been questioned.

This year several outside speakers have visited the union to present pertinent ideas for consideration and add to the discussions.

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION CLUB

• Those students interested in religious education gather twice each month in the Recreation Room of the Music-Religion building for Religious Ed Club meeting.

Programs have consisted of student demonstration projects and visiting speakers in various phases of the field. One of their year-round projects was an extension service which gave practical experience to members of the club as well as helping various churches in this section of the state with model Training Union programs.

The annual banquet was a soaring success. Held in the College Cafeteria, a Dutch theme was used.

Ed Elliott and Ralph Harrell served the club as presidents for the year.

CHRISTIAN SERVICE

• With Francis Chesson as their president, Christian Service group members undertook such projects this year as weekly cottage prayer meetings in the colored section, infirmity visitation, a clothing drive for Europe, and a campus-wide campaign to give food to needy families in the community at Christmas time.

STUDENT VOLUNTEERS

• The Student Volunteer Group tries to establish contact with and fellowship among those students on the campus who are studying for missionary service. Programs this year centered around the work on the different mission fields and the organization of the Southern Baptist Mission Boards. Troy Bennett served as president.

Seated: Ann Tumblin, Rachel Cates, Beverly Neilson, Maxine Hayes. Standing: Billie Parrish, Boyce Medlin, Dr. Arthur Gallimore, Troy Bennett, Nancy Morris.

PARSONS—All members of the huge Cullom Ministerial Conference pose here for annual picture with Dr. Willis R. Cullom, for whom the organization is named. Dr. Cullom has been associated with the college for sixty-three years which, incidentally, is the number of Conference members pictured here.

CULLOM MINISTERIAL CONFERENCE

• Ministerial students on the campus meet in the Little Chapel every Tuesday evening at 7:15 for their Cullom Ministerial Conference gathering. This year, Hunter Phillips was president for the fall term, and Bob Aufarth was elected for the spring session.

The Conference seeks to promote spiritual fellowship and growth among students studying for the Christian ministry through these weekly worship and study periods. An effort is made to encourage high scholarship, close fellowship, and more meaningful worship.

One outstanding feature of the program this year, has been the experiment of the group with student participation on the programs. Constructive criticism, offered by Professor Franklin Shirley of the Speech Department, helps the future ministers in their public speaking. This is just one of the many projects of the Conference to instruct students in solving some of the practical problems which they must face in the ministry.

Boyce Medlin and Bruce Cresson served as program leaders for the year. In addition to the student programs, there were speeches by members of the faculty and by outstanding religious leaders of this state.

Perhaps the best attended program of the year was the lecture by Dr. Olin T. Binkley of the Southern Baptist Seminary in Louisville, Kentucky.

But the future parsons were sure not to let the fellowship part of their aim lag. The Prophet's Frolic held in the Cafeteria in the fall was one of the best in the history of the event. Dr. Robert Helm spoke at the banquet. In the spring, the Conference invited the future leaders of the Ladies Auxiliary to join them at the Prophets Fling at the S and W in Raleigh. Dr. Dick Howerton, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Lumberton gave a pointed, but humorous, after-dinner talk.

Good preachers are healthy men. Realizing this, the Conference took part in intramural athletics by sponsoring football and softball teams.

YOUNG WOMEN'S AUXILIARY

• Y.W.A., under the leadership of Ruth Ann Weathers, insured a good beginning this year with a series of pajama parties for girls in both dorms. Fourteen circles were formed, and plans for nightly devotionals, Taps, were made. Subscriptions were taken for the "Y.W.A. Window," the magazine for the organization.

Y.W.A. undertook a number of projects during the year. The girls had charge of the nursery each Sunday during the morning worship service. They also acted as baby-sitters for the Woman's Missionary Society. Just before Thanksgiving, three baskets of food were bought for three needy families in Wake Forest. In December, Y.W.A. sponsored a special vesper service each night for one week in observance of the Season of Prayer for Foreign Missions.

Two offerings were taken up for foreign missions—the Lottie Moan Christmas offering and the Annie Armstrong offering.

Mrs. Gordon Madry led a study course, "O, Jerusalem," in observance of the Season of Prayer for Home Missions.

A general meeting was held on the second Tuesday of each month with an average attendance of about twenty-two. Marcella Reid as program chairman did a fine job in planning interesting, instructional, and inspirational programs.

FOURTEEN CIRCLES were formed this year, beginning with a series of pajama parties in the fall in both dorms.

MIR. MUSIC. Prof. Thane McDonald, takes his music seriously, yet informally during the many hours of rehearsal.

MUSIC

• The Music-Religion building was always buzzing with activity, and this activity kept the campus of Wake Forest well supplied with music the whole year round. Glee Club rehearsals, piano and voice students practicing exercises were only a few of the things that kept the building noisily busy.

The man behind all this music was Professor Thane McDonald, head of the music department. "Professor Mac," as he is known to all the students, was one of the busiest men in Wake Forest, and it is easy to see why when one enumerates things he found time to do. He supervised all the activities of the music department with the able assistance of Mr. Claude Cook, instructor in piano; Dr. Clifford Bair, instructor in voice; and Mr. William Parham, director of the Little Symphony. Prof. McDonald taught classes in musical theory, directed the college band, the glee club, and the College Choir. Although these rehearsals kept him busy, he was on hand to play for chapel services. Besides directing the college musical groups, he had the added responsibility of Minister of Music at the Baptist Church. This job included directing the church choir and acting as organist for all church services.

As well as choral work in glee club and choir, band experience, Little Symphony, and private lessons in voice, piano, and other instruments, the music department offered to students classes in musical theory, work in small ensembles, and training in the Opera Workshop.

HOURS AND HOURS of practice result in a smooth combination of violin and talent, as Lulu Williams, music major and virtuoso, begins to play. The accompanist pictured at the piano is not pictured.

THE GLEE CLUB

• The largest musical organization on campus, the glee club was constantly in demand during the school year 1950-51. Each Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, the glee club was present in chapel to lead the singing or to provide special music for the chapel program. Several times during the year, the group was in charge of the program and presented varied selections.

This seventy-five voice group rehearsed each Tuesday and Thursday afternoon at four-thirty under the direction of Professor Thane McDonald with Douglass Hall as accompanist for the group. The general public knows little about what goes on at these sessions behind the "rock walls" of the music building, but every glee club member knows that it takes many hours of diligent practice to make music. With a knowledge of the tradition of good music at Wake Forest, the group worked unceasingly to carry on in a creditable manner.

The organization was given a rare opportunity and privilege in the fall when they were asked to sing for the presidential inauguration. At the inauguration of Dr. Harold Tribble as the tenth president of Wake Forest College, the glee club sang several selections.

Just before the Christmas holidays the glee club gave its annual performance of Handel's "Messiah." This year the program was given in the college chapel rather than in the church as previous years. The group also made a tape-recording of portions of "The Messiah" before the holidays. The recording was presented as a special program on Christmas Eve afternoon by radio station WPTF. They had still another opportunity to sing this great music—this time with the Raleigh Civic Chorus. This combined group of more than one hundred voices was directed by Professor Thane McDonald in their performance of the sacred oratorio in Memorial Auditorium.

During the annual Magnolia Festival in May, the glee club presented a spring concert in addition to the Opera Workshop's performance of "Oh Susanna."

WAKE FOREST COLLEGE CHOIR

• The Wake Forest College Choir, under the direction of Thane McDonald and accompanied at the piano by Douglass Hall, was the primary traveling group of the music department. The forty voices, selected from the Glee Club, began making their public appearances early in the year.

READY TO SING—and well qualified for virtually every demand are J. B. Benton, Charles Greene, Allen Brown, and Harold Stephens.

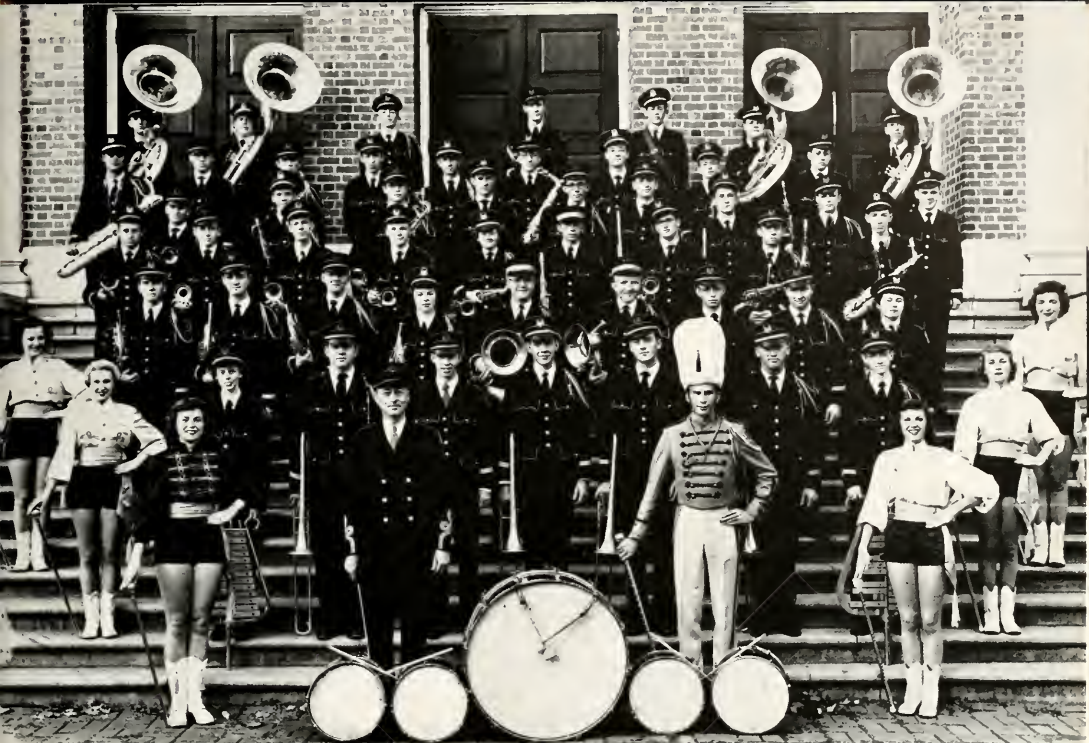

The first concert of the season by the Choir was the presentation of a cantata, "Peace," composed by Lamar Stringfield. Mr. Stringfield conducted for the program at the convention of the National Federation of Music Teachers in Raleigh. The Choir, with choral groups from other North Carolina colleges, also sang in the Christmas Carol Festival at Reynolds Coliseum in Raleigh early in December.

The Fourth Annual Spring Tour took the Choir through western North Carolina and across the state line to Knoxville, Tennessee, spreading the good will and good music of Wake Forest College.

MEN'S QUARTET

• The Male Quartet of the Wake Forest music department has for several years been a well-known ensemble on the campus, and in each place the quartet has made an appearance it has been well received. This year proved to be no exception. The quartet made several independent performances in churches, in the college chapel services, and for special groups in and around Wake Forest. As always, the four boys composing the quartet traveled with the College Choir for all of its regular appearances, doing double duty as Choir members and as members of a featured ensemble.

Wherever the Choir appeared audiences were always eager to hear the music of the Male Quartet.

THE BAND

• Starting off the year as a marching band, the Wake Forest College Band was an indispensable part of football season. The sixty-person organization entertained the fans with good fight music and diversified halftime antics. Appearing at all home games and most of the out-of-town games, the band was put through its routines by Drum Major Bill Tomlinson, Head Majorette Sara Page Jackson and five other majorettes.

As a concert band, they presented a Christmas and spring concert in the college chapel.

LITTLE SYMPHONY

• Although it is a small instrumental group, the Little Symphony met with a great deal of success in its various endeavors of the year. The twenty-five piece group, under the able direction of William Parham, figured prominently in several campus musical programs.

First row: Humber, Hall, Gulley, Keith. Second row: Zrakas, Lewis, West, Goolsby. Third row: Greene, Glanville, Jackson. Fourth row: Goodson, J. Zrakas, Smith.

DISCERNING CO-EDITOR Dave Clark combined his ability with the talent and driving energy of co-editor Carol Jean Oldham to produce one of the finest Old G. & B's. in years.

The Old Gold and Black

• "The Old Gold and Black" still carries the slogan "Covers the Campus Like the Magnolias." It did just that this year in a most admirable way. Under the expert guidance of Co-editors Carol Oldham and Dave Clark, the paper enjoyed unprecedented popularity.

For the first time this year, the staff turned out a full-length newspaper with seven-column pages. The eight page issues featured more pictures and a more complete coverage of campus and local events. The twenty-eight issues of the paper also carried several comprehensive weekly column on various student activities.

The editorials were one of the most remarkable features of what was generally an exceptional collegiate newspaper. Several timely editorials concerning the honor system and other student affairs were a distinguishing mark of the paper.

The business manager of the sheet was Bobby Hollomon, who with his competent staff, did a remarkable job in securing advertisements for the paper. The advertising page was increased, alleviating the greater cost of the more extensive publication.

The large sports section was edited by Wiley Warren with the capable assistance of Red Pope, Ray Williams, and a bevy of accomplished sports writers.

Assisting in assembling editorial matter were Associate Editors Neil Gobbert, Jewell Livingston, Paula Ballew, Bill Austin, and Tom Clark. Other administrative assistants were Staff Photographers J. B. Benton and Tom Walters.

LOOKS OF REPUGNANCE, scorn and nonchalance are registered by staff members as they await orders from Dave Clark.

CIRCULATION STAFF, headed by Jack Dawson, trotted to Wait Hall each Sunday to address the 2,500 papers.

WFDD

• Radio Station WFDD, a full member of the Inter-Collegiate Broadcasting System, grew rapidly this year under the capable management of Sonny Burroughs, Station Manager. No longer considered a baby in publication row, WFDD held its own with all the other publications. Requiring an announcing staff, continuity staff, engineering staff, promotion staff, record staff, and business staff to operate, the station had a total of at least sixty-five students helping to keep it in operation.

WFDD's sports coverage was very widespread. Sports broadcasts included out-of-town football games with William and Mary, Virginia and Clemson; coverage of all Big Four basketball games at home and away, and coverage of all Big Four baseball games.

As for coverage of campus events, WFDD broadcast lectures, church services every Sunday, special worship services, the "Messiah" at Christmas, Easter Services, Bond and Glee Club concerts, prominent speakers, on-the-spot returns from campus elections, and the complete inauguration of Dr. Tribble.

Being on the air approximately forty-two hours a week, WFDD put many new programs on the air. One of the favorites was the Coffee Shop, an early morning show by Harry Wellott and Bill Mitchell.

CHUCKLING OVER the absurdity of the script is great fun for wacky announcers "Gus" Bryson and cohort Randolph Sink, who are a part of the lively announcing contingency of college station. Bill Mitchell pretends to take telephone request in background.

TALK! TALK! TALK!—a specialty with all members of the loquacious WFDD staff. Station Manager Sonny Burroyths dominates this session with hired hands Peggy Nelson, Rachel Bailey, Assistant Manager Jack Thomas, and Ann Stroud.

STATION ENGINEER Roger Melanson has a very difficult job in keeping all equipment in working shape. He is seen here soldering a few dozen wires on a suffering patient which probably just needs plugging in and a new set of tubes.

RECORD LIBRARIAN Sue Keith can truthfully boast more records during the year than any other campus "wheel." Her department added some five-hundred selections during the year.

ASSISTANT MANAGER Jack Thomas discusses ideas to help get "The Voice of Wake Forest" across to more listeners with Publicity Director Rachel Bailey, who had the task of advertising special and regular features of the station through the year.

THE STUDENT

• The purpose of the "Student" this year was to create a magazine for the students and by the students which expressed the picture life at Wake Forest. It was a combination of the literary with the humorous which resulted in an all-round magazine with wide-spread appeal.

The "Student" followed the blueprints of the 48-49 magazine to an extent but had several pleasing innovations. In size, content, and make-up, the magazine was similar to that of the preceding year. Editor Jewell Livingstone introduced a new-style cover which varied some throughout the year. She also established an inside introductory page which denoted the theme in most cases for the particular issue. Probably the most commendable issue of the year was the mid-century issue which told the fifty year story of the college. It was acclaimed by alumni as well as students, and many visitors to the college gratefully accepted copies.

The magazine had a large and efficient staff under the guidance of Editor Livingstone and Business Manager Bill Golding. Art contributors were Dan Pearce, Dan Lee Paschal, Tom Mezger, Suzanne Dyer, Bet Isbell, Charles Billings, Everette Kivette, and Bob Sherrill. The editorial matter was contributed by Carl Meigs, Cree Deane, Red Pope, Wiley Warren, Carol Oldham, Bynum Shaw, Bob Wilson, Tom Clark, Dan Fagg, and Marcella Reed.

Betty Lou Graves served as exchange editor, and the circulation staff was made up of Sue Keith, Nolan Barnes, Bob Loftis, Bill Greene, and Taylor Sanford, Jr.

Aiding Golding on the business staff were: Dick Kennedy, Lib Hill, Norma Lattimore, Margaret Floyd. Professor Dalma Brown was faculty adviser for the publication.

FAITHFUL writer Cree Deane was one of the leading factors in production of the entertaining and punctual (of all things) student mag this year. Cree is seen here typing a short story from Short's to go in the publication.

WORN, but still game, photographer Tom Walters clicked the shutter of his camera over 2,000 times for "Student," and "Howler" during 1950-51. The grind failed to dent Tom's mastery of technique meriting editors' eternal gratitude.

EDITOR Bet Isbell, chief pencil sharpener and floor-sweeper, cajoled staff into producing '51 "Howler" on schedule.

THE '51 HOWLER

COPY STAFF members Bob Yancey, Ann Blackwelder, Cree Deane, Red Pope, Mary Stanland, Neil Gabbert, Chief Pullen, and Tom Clark in round-table discussion.

PRODUCTION is assured by Art Editor Charles Billings. Other members of editorial staff hard at work are Thom Miller and Libbie Lou Allen.

- "The Howler" appeared on schedule for the first time in two years due to the work of one of the largest staffs in past years. More than thirty people contributed to the editing of the complete and diversified yearbook.

The 1951 annual is divided into ten distinct sections to include the administration and faculty, classes, law school, honorary organizations, physical education and athletics, students activities, social fraternities, the beauty court, campus life, and advertising.

This edition includes several innovations and some features that were not included in the preceding yearbook. A complete faculty section is presented as is a comprehensive section on student life. For the first time, the "Howler" contains a student directory.

The law section was done under the direction of Charles Billings; Ann Blackwelder served as club editor, Tom Clark, religion editor, Mary Stanland, music editor, Charles Barham, fraternity editor, Sunny Snyder, dramatics editor; Red Pope and Ray Williams, athletics editors. These in turn worked under Chief Copy Editor Lucius Pullen, who assigned and edited all copy.

The production staff, headed by Fred Upchurch and Thom Miller, had Carol Moore and Libbie Lou Allen in charge of student life and Peggy Earp in charge of student activities.

Co-Business Managers Lee Cain and Barbara White, working with an efficient staff, gathered a record number of advertisements. The staff sold eighteen hundred dollars in ads requiring twenty-three pages in the advertising section.

Over twenty-two hundred pictures were taken by staff Photographers Tom Walters and J. B. Benton, of which some four hundred and ninety prints were selected for use in the book. The art work was done by Art Editor Charles Billings and Editor Bet Isbell.

CO-BUSINESS MANAGER Barbara White tracked down elusive ads in getting the '51 "Howler" over the financial hump.

LEE CAIN, co-business manager, concentrated on figures to keep the wolf away from the "Howler" door. Cain's staff sold a record number of advertisements.

L. W. PULLEN, chief copy editor gave impetus to his large staff. Hashing over assignments, copy-reading, came in this department.

FRED UPCHURCH, associate editor, ordered every picture used in the '51 "Howler."

SECTION editors Carol Moore, Peggy Earp, and Red Pope, sports editor, whipping up a few ideas.

ASSOCIATE Editor Thom Miller sacrificed time and energy in aiding staff photographers. Thom's duties ranged from mounting pictures to the unending ritual of arranging pic appointments.

CANDID Camera-man J. B. Benton; always on call. Successor to Tom Walters, Benton lost no time, quality of work, nor words, in furnishing '51 "Howler" photos.

FACULTY advisers Professor D. A. Brown, Dr. Henry Snuggs, and Dr. E. E. Folk, aiding the "Student," "Howler," and "Old Gold and Black," respectively, cope with special problems.

PUBLICATIONS BOARD

• The group which decides on policies as a whole, officers, and technical matters is the Publications Board of Wake Forest College. All editors and business managers are automatically members, augmented by representatives from each publication who are selected in a general campus election.

Functioning under President Jewell Livingstone, the board deviated from the usual order in harboring three feminine editors. Other officers were: vice-president, Carol Jean Oldham, and Sonny Burroughs, secretary-treasurer.

COMPLETELY UNCONSCIOUS, this group of editors and business managers is impressive. This picture was snapped in a state institution just outside of Raleigh, as clan chatters happily.

LITTLE THEATRE

• In 1944, a little band of students interested in the field of dramatics organized themselves into a group known as the Wake Forest College Little Theatre. Since that time, this organization, with some degree of success, has endeavored to entertain the college community. At first the group had very limited funds and equipment, but little by little, both funds and equipment were added, making the presentation of plays more effective. In 1948, the Little Theatre began producing well known classics and since that time has produced such plays as "Ghosts," "Othello," "Cyrano de Bergerac," "Winterset," "Hamlet," "School for Scandal," and "Macbeth." It is the goal of the Little Theatre to bring and produce the best of drama for the Wake Forest theatre audience.

In spite of the threat of losing leading men, directors, and committee heads to the armed forces, the Little Theatre successfully produced three major productions this year. Under the faculty supervision of Professor Franklin R. Shirley of the English Department, this dramatic organization was led by: Charles Billings, president; George Spence, vice-president; and Doris Greene, secretary. Meetings were sparked with talks by professors, discussions pertaining to the field of drama, and programs given by students.

"School for Scandal," Richard Sheridan's classic satire on the manners and madness of the eighteenth century "upper crust," was presented by the Little Theatre on the first and second of December as its fall production. It was the first of a series of productions to be presented through the year in the college chapel.

George Spence, veteran Little Theatre actor and a member of Paul Green's "Lost Colony" cast, was chosen to direct the play. Spence packed three years of experience into choosing the versatile cast and directing the performance. The directing was noted as one of the strong points of the play by campus critics.

Jerry Sutherland, a freshman from Wallace, and Bettye Faye Lentz, transfer student from Cumberland College in Williamsburg, Kentucky, were chosen to play the romantic leads as Charles Surface and Maria. The play revolved around the complicated life and love affair of this young couple.

The most exciting and enjoyable roles in the play were those of Sir Peter and Lady Teazle. Bob Solomon, junior from Asheville, performed admirably as Sir Peter, and Eleanor Geer, freshman from Boone, was equally as entertaining as Lady Teazle. They were a married couple, who were fully and bitterly acquainted with the rocky road of married life, and their amusing quirks added spice and liveliness to the fast-moving comedy.

Others included in the cast were: Bill Waddell, Paul West, Professor Jack Futrell, Charles Garrett, Harriet Smith, Luanna Breeden, and Ray Jones.

The technical cast for the play worked under the direction of Bob Bennett, junior from Haddonfield, N. J. Bennett, in his third year of Little Theatre work, had charge of designing the sets and also acted as stage manager. Hugh Pearson was assistant technician for the play which featured costumes from the Carolina Playmakers.

CAREFUL DIRECTION assures polished productions. "Scandal" director, George Spence, points out instructions from his vantage point "out front."

LOVE ENTERS as Charles and Maria, played by Jerry Southerland and Bettye Faye Lentz, meet. Eleanor Geer and Bob Solomon quarrel as Lady Teazle and Sir Peter.

AN ATTENTIVE CAST watches as George Spence coaches Chuck Lucarella. Other cast members are: Seated: Jerry Southerland, Eleanor Geer, Charles Garrett, and Bill Waddell. Standing are Ray Jones, Betty Faye Lentz, Lucarella, Professor Jack Futrell, and Bob Solomon. In background is Bob Bennett, stage manager.

LIGHTING EXPERT Dave Herring prepares to flood the stage with the light which transforms the set into a beautiful drawing-room.

A ROUSING TOAST to "wine, women, and song" is proposed by Careless, played by Joe Mauney. His companions, Buck Goodwyn and Jerry Southerland, are all too agreeable.

THE LATEST GOSSIP is repeated and elaborated upon in the drawing-room of Lady Sneerwell. Bill Hendrix, as the evil Snake, gloats as Luanna Breeden pours the gossip into his greedy ears. Bill Waddell, as Sir Oliver, apparently disagrees to this slandering.

VETERAN STAGE HANDS such as Charles Billings, Bill Mitchell, Al Thomas, and Hugh Pearson are often the unsung heroes of a production.

LIGHTING DEMONSTRATION is given for Charles Billings, Little Theatre president, and Professor Franklin R. Shirley, Director of Dramatic Arts. Professor Charles Allen, technical adviser, manipulates the switch.

MORE GOSSIP is related by Sir Benjamin to Joseph Surface, and his uncle, Crahtree, who has obviously heard another version. Hits of "Scandal" were Charles Garrett, Paul West, and Professor Futrell.

• The winter production of the Little Theatre was "Angel Street," a tense Victorian thriller by Langdon Martin. This drama from which the movie "Gaslight" was taken several years ago, tells of an uncouth moniac who, for sinister motives, is slowly driving his wife insane. The terror and high emotion around which the play revolves kept the audience glued to their seats until the fall of the final curtain.

"Angel Street," which was presented the sixteenth and seventeenth of February, was directed by Bob Bennett. The leading roles were played by Doris Greene as the pathetic Mrs. Manningham, Bill Waddell as Detective Rough, and Joe Durham as Mr. Manningham. Bill Waddell was especially outstanding in his excellent portrayal of the Irish detective who came to the aid of the frantic Mrs. Manningham. Others in the cast were Ann Williams as the provocative Nancy, and Pat Banks as Elizabeth. Al Thomas was set designer and Stage Manager.

REVENGE IS SWEET to the tortured mind of Mrs. Manningham, as she taunts her cruel husband. Doris Greene and Joe Durham brilliantly portrayed the Manninghams.

GREASE-PAINT TRANSFORMS mere people into living characters. Make-up artists, Anne Stroud and Bob Bennett, apply the final touches in completing the make-up of Joe Durham and Doris Greene. In the background, Pat Banks applies lip rouge as she completes her own make-up.

CONFRONTED AT last with his crimes, Mr. Manningham pretends to ignore Inspector Rough's (Bill Waddell) accusations. His attempt to find the lost Barlow rubies has been in vain.

THE PLOT TO drive his wife insane has almost been successful. Manningham watches as Mrs. Manningham tries to orient her confused mind.

• "Macbeth," classic tragedy by William Shakespeare, was presented by the Little Theatre as part of the Magnolia Festival program the first week in May. This production was by far the best of the three given this year. The excellent cast and direction, together with the superb drama of the play, gave to the theatre audience the great satisfaction of seeing an inspired performance.

Dr. Edgar E. Folk, noted Shakespearean authority of the English department, was the faculty director for this production. "Macbeth" has long been a favorite of Dr. Folk's, and his sensitive interpretation of the drama was very impressive. Charles Billings, a senior from Goldsboro, was the student director.

Harry Wellot gave a powerful performance as the ambitious, ill-fated Macbeth, and Betty Jo Ring was especially outstanding as Lady Macbeth. These two were at their best in the scene in which Lady Macbeth convinces her husband to kill Duncan.

Bill Waddell received favorable comments for his portrayal of MacDuff, Bob Bennett was highly complimented for his representation of the attendant to Macbeth, Doris Greene and Cree Deane were notable in the roles of Lady MacDuff and the son of MacDuff, Ray Jones was a standout in the portrayal of the comical gatekeeper.

Professor Charles Allen did a magnificent job as set designer for "Macbeth." His superb construction of difficult scenes was a great aid in setting the atmosphere for the play. Working with Professor Allen was Al Thomas, stage manager for the production.

A MOMENT OF INDECISION nearly thwarts Macbeth from his bloody deed, but Lady Macbeth goads him into committing the murder of Duncan. Betty Jo Ring and Harry Wellot ably fulfilled the difficult roles assigned them.

THE BLOODY DAGGER proclaims the foul deed of Macbeth. As Malcolm and Banquo question him, Macbeth feigns grief, but Lady Macbeth shrieks from the sight of the villainous blade that she so recently held in her own hands.

MACBETH QUESTIONS, "Is this a dagger which I see before me?" as the apparition of the knife leads him toward the sleeping form of Duncan.

• Besides the three major productions, "School for Scandal," "Angel Street," and "Macbeth," the Little Theatre presented as a chapel program a one act play, "When Shakespeare's Ladies Meet." This farcical comedy, concerned with what might happen if some of Shakespeare's heroines got together for an afternoon of conversation, was directed by Charles Billings. Included in the cast were Cecyle Arnold as the dignified Portia; Libby Lou Allen as the tamed shrew, Catherine; Jean Johnson as Ophelia; Cree Deane as the maid, Juliet; Carol Moore as Desdemona; and Sunny Snyder as the siren, Cleopatra

"OUT DAMNED SPOT!" wails the mad Lady Macbeth, as she walks in her sleep throughout the castle. Still she sees the blood of the murdered Duncan on her hands.

DEBATE SQUAD

• The strong Wake Forest Debate squad had a very eventful year, and as the result of much hard work, showed up well at the seven tournaments in which they participated.

At the Carolina Forensics tournament held in Columbia, South Carolina, the women's affirmative team composed of Ann Kelly and Clara Ellen Francis, won first place in the woman's division. Miss Francis won a loving cup for the best woman debater in the tourney. They defeated teams from the University of North Carolina, South Carolina, Florida and The Citadel.

At the Strawberry Leaf Forensics held in Charlotte, the women's negative team composed of Cecyle Arnold and Elva Lawrence, placed first in their division. Miss Lawrence was rated first among women speakers. The men's teams composed of Virgil Moorefield, Wiley Mitchell, and L. W. Pullen and Charles Barham, represented the men's division at these two tournaments.

At the Cherry Blossom tournament in Washington, D. C., the local debaters tied with Kansas State College for second place. The team of Mitchell and Moorefield took victories over Army, Notre Dame, Swarthmore, and St. Ambrose of Iowa. The team of Pullen and Joe Mauney defeated teams from Navy, Duke, Vermont, Georgetown, Kansas State, and the Merchant Marine Academy.

The debaters also attended the Savage Tournament at Durant, Oklahoma, South Atlantic Tournament in Hickory, the Pi Kappa Delta National Tournament at Stillwater, Oklahoma, and the annual Southern Speech Convention at Gainesville, Florida. Making this extensive three week trip were Miss Arnold, Miss Lawrence, Pullen, Moorefield and Mitchell, accompanied by Professor Franklin Shirley, debate coach.

The squad, whose manager this year was L. W. Pullen, also met other teams from Duke, State, Denison University of Ohio, and the University of Vermont.

GOODBYE CLASSES is probably the source of smiles as the debate squad prepares to leave on the college station wagon. The group is seen here just before it embarked for the initial debate tourney of the fall semester held in Columbia, S. C. at the University of South Carolina.

Fourth row: Tom Mezger, Richard Barnett, John Riggs, Tom Clark.

MEMORABLE PERFORMANCES of the tragic Macbeth and the ambitious Lady Macbeth by Harry Wellot and Betty Jo Ring highlighted this year's Magnolia Festival Shakespearean production. Their portrayal of the tragic couple was sensitive and acute, making this production one of the best that the Little Theater has ever offered.

EUZELIAN LITERARY SOCIETY

• Although the Euzelian membership was cut down a great deal this year due to practice teaching and other factors, the organization still had a successful year. Vernon Wall served as president during the fall semester, and Jack Overman guided the society through the spring semester in that capacity.

The outstanding events of the year were Society Day and Founder's Day contests and the customary banquet with the rival Society. Although the Phi Society won the Society Day Contest by a score of 20-17, the Eus met with some success. The query for the Debate was Resolved: "That the United States should grant Puerto Rico her independence." The Euzelian team, composed of Roger Cole and Camp Mason upheld the affirmative unsuccessfully, but Mason was judged best debater in the affair.

In the Women's Debate, Ann Kelly and Clara Ellen Francis won for the Euzelians. Doris Greene took the Dramatic Reading contest, and Doris Ann Link was victorious in the Women's Impromptu event.

The Society was host at the Society Day Banquet, and President Vernon Wall served as Master of Ceremonies. Of the contests held at the banquet, Graham Weathers won the After-Dinner Speech event, and Bill Cramer capped the Poetry Reading award. The Eus lost the other contest held in the spring.

PHILOMATHESIAN LITERARY SOCIETY

• The Philomathesian Literary Society, with Dave Clark at the helm during the fall semester, and Ba Medlin in the spring semester, enjoyed a most successful year.

The Phis were winners in the Society Day contest held during the first week in December, beating the Eus by three points, 20-17. The Phis found winners in those contests in Joe Mauney, oration; John Oates and Dave Clark, debate; Allen Johnson, declamation; Roy Snell, extempore; Tom Clark, impromptu; and Billie Parrish, best woman debater.

The Phis began second semester with great plans for winning the Founder's Day Contests held the last week in April. Leaders for first semester were Lucius Pullen, vice-president; Joanne Matthews, recording secretary; Mildred Brooks, corresponding secretary, John Oates, treasurer, Allen Johnson, program chairman; Luther Dunn, chaplain, Ba Medlin, doorman; and Tom Clark, sexton. The Phis won the Founder's Day Contest 24-13.

Leaders for second semester were Fred Billups, vice-president, Delia Aycock, recording secretary, Billie Parrish, corresponding secretary, Joe Billy Mauney, treasurer, Elva Lawrence, program chairman, Peggy Garren, assistant program chairman, Nancy Morris, chaplain, Cecyle Arnold, critic, Dave Clark, doorman; and Roy Snell, sexton.

MID-WINTER DANCES

• The haunting "Snowfall," theme of Claude Thornhill's 16-piece orchestra, was most appropriate for the series of three dances that comprised Mid-Winters. With little regard for the icy roads leading to Raleigh, approximately three hundred fraternity members, alumni, and their dates attended the annual affair in Raleigh Memorial Auditorium.

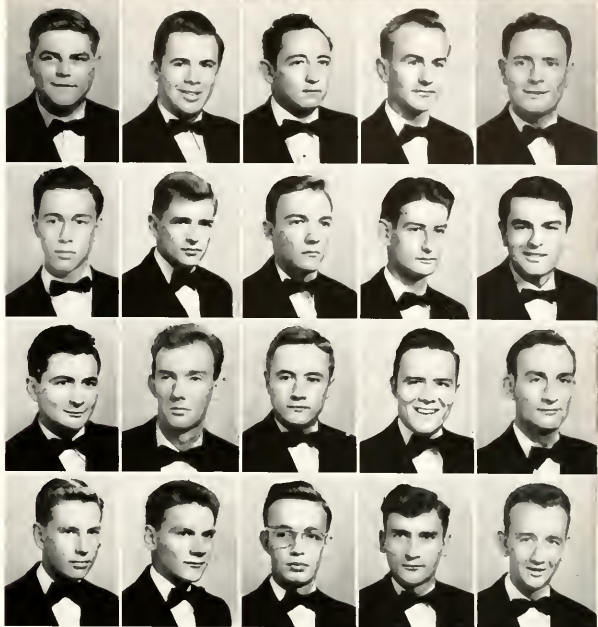

The climax of the weekend was the presentation of the twenty sponsors and their dates, who represent the ten social fraternities on the campus at the formal affair Saturday night. Besides the Saturday night formal, the dances included a semi-formal dance from nine until one o'clock Friday night, and a tea dance from three until five o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Claude Thornhill was procured through B. T. Henderson, IFC Social Chairman. The dances are considered the ranking social event of the Wake Forest fraternity year.

INTER-FRATERNITY COUNCIL

• The Inter-Fraternity Council of Wake Forest College is the organ through which the social activities of the college function. Its main responsibility rests in the planning of the dances which the Council annually sponsors. In addition to the social affairs, the group undertook several other worthwhile projects.

Again this year the ten social fraternities, through the I.F.C., continued to support their war orphan. Under the leadership of Jack Overman, the Council added such new projects as the sponsoring of a fraternity seminar, aiding the B.S.U. with the Sunday Night programs, and the promotion of Christmas baskets for needy families.

So outstanding was the service of the Council to the school and the community, that it received the second-place award in the small school class from the National Inter-Fraternity Council. The award was presented to the president at the National Convention.

• The east end of Simmons Dormitory was the location of much activity and the Pi Kappa Alpha Social fraternity this year. The PiKas, always a lively group, was no different this year.

With the advent of Homecoming weekend, the chapter started the social ball rolling and didn't slow down until just after final examinations. Some of the boys graduated at this time. On the Friday evening preceding Homecoming, members, pledges, dates and alumni gathered at the Supper Club in Raleigh for a banquet and dance.

Just before leaving school for Christmas holidays, the men of Gamma Phi co-sponsored a Christmas dance with the Kappa Sigs, Sigma Pis, Theta Chis, and Lambda Chis. On the following Friday, the chapter held an open house for the coeds. Other festivities of the year which were attended by all the brothers were the Mid-winter Dances and the Spring Dance.

Football season was a profitable one for the PiKas. For the second time in the past three years, the chapter was victorious in the intramural football league. As the varsity squad was successful during the year, so was the chapter. Gamma Phi won three sheepskins during the pigskin season from brothers at Duke, Carolina, and George Washington.

When the Deman Deacon baseballers journeyed to the Pan American Games in Buenos Aires, Argentina, the chapter had Junie Floyd and Wiley Warren among the twelve-man contingency.

The frat lost several men to the Armed Services during the year. Grady Barnhill, Hugh Curd, Jim Martin, R. B. Bell, Joe White, Bob Smith, Sam Edwards, and King Martin were among the first to leave.

Jennings Agner served as president for the fall semester, and Bill Galding was elected to this office in the spring. J. D. Batts, vice-president, Ralph Brown, secretary, and George Ferre, treasurer, were the other officers of the year.

First row: C. Glenn Austin, Henry G. Barnhill, J. D. Batts, Robert B. Bell, Jr. Second row: Henry Worth Buyce, Jr., Ralph Brown, E. Lee Cain, Charlie D. Clark, Jr. Third row: H. Max Craig, Houston G. • Sigma Pi fraternity of the corner of Highway No. 1 had another prosperous and enjoyable year during 1950-51. The chapter was capably led by George Kahdy, who was assisted by Irving G. "Ig" Turnage, vice-president; Gene Nance, secretary; and Harold Walters, treasurer.

The boys spent a large part of the time, as always, sitting on the piazza and waving at yankees. Near the end of the year, they constructed a stone wall around the corner of the yard to keep tourists from cutting the corner too sharply. The pledges did the heavy work. The ground was leveled off and grass was planted also. The pledges did the heavy work.

All of the Inter-Fraternity dances, from the Homecoming dances in the fall to the spring dance, were a great success. On the eve of Homecoming, the chapter threw a big dance in the Community House. Walt Plemmer and his band furnished the music for the dancing from nine till midnight. After that, the gang, band and all, moved up to frat row for an all night jam session.

Preceding Christmas holidays, the chapter joined with four other fraternities on the campus to stage a ball in the Virginia Dare Ballroom of the Hotel Sir Walter in Raleigh. Before going home for Christmas, the brothers also had a stag party at which novel gifts were exchanged. Co-Social Chairmen Hank Caddell and Allen Harris were responsible for the arrangement of these and other social functions during the year.

The chapter was represented in varsity sports by golfer Hugh Jennings and trackmen Bill Johnson, Jim Daniel and Bob Ayers.

The chapter, as did all others, felt the effect of the national emergency. Six of the brothers volunteered for the Armed Forces. The Navy claimed Darrell Henry Cockrell and Allen Wall from active membership. Coy Cook enlisted in the Army, and Jimmy Draucker volunteered for the Air Force.

• This year saw the fine results of a well planned improvement program which continued throughout the year. The program emphasized such phases of fraternity life as scholarship, athletics, and chapter room beautification.

In scholarship each man who had maintained a "B" average for three semesters or more was awarded a scholarship trophy. Wade Gallant, J. B. Scott, and Bill Simms were the members to receive trophies this year. This practice is to be a chapter policy in the future. A plaque was also awarded to Bill Hedrick for having the highest grades in his pledge class. The fraternity awarded a trophy to Dan Fouts for being the most outstanding pledge.

Coach Clarence Eden guided the fraternity intramural team to their share of victories. Probably the most fiercely contested games were those between the members and the pledges. The pledges captured the football game and the members won the basketball clash. As is the custom after intra-fraternity contests, the victors were treated by the vanquished to a free supper.

Several improvements were added to the chapter room. After painting and redecorating the chapter room the fraternity added a new rug.

Besides the socials sponsored by the IFC, the men had some of their own. Perhaps the most important of these was the Inter-Zeta dance where all Lambda Chi chapters in the state got together for a little fun and fellowship.

Feeling the effect of the war effort, the chapter lost Bruce Thompson, George Saintsing, Harry Joe King, Roger McCullom, and Emory Sneed.

Marvin Pearce, Jim Oldham, Wade Gallant, Ben Williams, Bill Simms, Bill Young, and Jim Woodhouse were the fraternity officers for the year.

K A

• Tau Chapter of Kappa Alpha order may well regard 1950-51 as two of the most well-rounded terms in recent years. A well coordinated combination of athletics, scholarship, social activities, and a general feeling of true brotherhood characterized this as a four-star year.

High spots on the social calendar were the chicken barbecue supper and dancing held on the eve of Homecoming in Durham, the Christmas party with the Sig Eps, and IFC dances.

On the intramural fields, the hard hitting Tau Knights was the team to beat, finishing as fraternity runner-up in touch football. The Rebels finished the basketball season by being crowned campus champions. Credit for each teams' fine work should go to Coaches Sterling Gates and Baldy Harris.

Varsity athletics were well studded with K A's: Dickie Davis, Bob Stutts, Jack Lewis, and Luther King in football, Paul Bennett and Red Barham added strength to Deac basketball, and with the coming of spring, Ned Davis, Lloyd Griffin and Carroll Weathers could be found on the baseball field. Golf claimed the biggest K A, of all Dick Tiddy, and Tinker Williams and Dave Clark served up for the tennis team.

At the end of the first semester, the K A's ranked first in scholarship. Helping the men to recapture the trophy which they won two years ago were Phi Betes Ced Davis, Tinker Williams, and Red Barham.

Four of the ten most outstanding seniors as selected by their classmates were K A's. Sterling Gates, president of the senior class, Lucius Pullen, outstanding debater and scholar, Dave Clark, Co-Editor of the "Old Gold and Black", and Paul Williams, versatile student leader. Holloman, Barham, Williams, Clark, and Pullen were also members of Omicron Delta Kappa. Other members sharing in campus activities were Red Pope and Fred Upchurch.

Leading the fraternity through this banner year were Paul Bennett, Bob Holloman, Jack Willis, and Fred Malone. These officers also left the chapter with such tangibles as several pieces of new furniture near the close of the year.

• The high spot of the year for Delta Sigma Phi was the annual Sailor's Ball held in conjunction with chapters at Duke and North Carolina State. The men and their dates came attired as "swabbies" for the function which was held at Crabtree Park. After an afternoon of recreation which included a softball tournament, the festivities were concluded with an evening of formal dancing.

Other social functions of the year revolved around the Inter-Fraternity Council dances. One of the most successful events of the year was the Mid-Winters weekend with a breakfast at the chapter house after the Saturday night formal dance.

The fraternity operated its dining hall again this year and made several improvements. The chapter also built a new recreation room in which they installed a lunch counter.

Several Delta Sigs participated in college sports this year. Jim Staton, Guido Scarton, Bob Ganna, "Spots" Spoltore, and Bill Finnance played varsity football. Scarton and Staton were selected for All-State honors, and Staton was named to several All-American teams. The Baby Deac gridders boasted such Delta Sigs as John Cello, Bruce Hillenbrand, Bill Churn, and Ben Tatum. Norm Muller was a member of the varsity basketball squad, and "Rock" Hardison was on the baseball team.

Several Delta Sigs were prominent in campus affairs. The most notable of these were Don Lee Paschal, vice-president of the student body, Harry Wellott, treasurer of the student body, and Norm Muller, president of the junior class.

Fraternity officers were George Bryant, president, Frank McGougan, vice-president, A. R. Hardison, secretary, and Bob Jones, treasurer.

• Sigma Phi Epsilon enjoyed a highly successful year, placing emphasis on both scholarship and social activities. President Phil Scott coordinated frat functions at the Sig Ep house and at the Annex through the year.

Many Sig Eps took their places among the outstanding students on the campus. B. T. Henderson and Piggy Davis were selected for "Who's Who." Davis, who served as president of the student body, was also a member of O.D.K. John Oates and Joe Mauney were leaders in campus forensics. Both held offices in the Philomathesian Literary Society, and Mauney was a varsity debater. George Spence and Bill Waddell gave of their talents to the Little Theater.

Jack Mueller, Ken Bridges, and Doyle Bedsole were prominent figures in varsity athletics. Bridges held down one end of the football team, while Jack Mueller performed with the cage squad. Doyle Bedsole was head cheerleader and a member of the track squad.

One of the highlights of the year was the presentation of the Most Valuable Football Player Award to Jim Staton, senior tackle. This fifth annual presentation of the Sig Ep Award was made by Phil Scott.

The Sig Ep chapter room acquired the new look this year as the chapter added several new pieces of furniture. A handsome radio-phonograph and a mahogany trophy case were the most important additions. The chapter also worked on plans for the proposed chapter house to be constructed in Winston-Salem.

Bill Foster was the first to leave for the Armed Forces. His enlistment in the Air Force was followed by Dick Clay, Bill Crepps, and Jack Dawson. Ed Salley and Tom Ogburn were recalled by the Army Reserves, and Tab Fisher enlisted in the Marine Corps.

Assisting Phil Scott in the administration of chapter affairs were John Graeber, vice-president, E. P. Ellis, secretary, and Bill Foster and Vann Seawell serving consecutively as comptroller.

• Athletics, IFC dances, scholarship, bull sessions, Talisman Queen, picnics, and active participation in campus affairs were all included in the story of the Alpha Sigma Phi fraternity during the year of 1950-51.

Led by President Brooks Gilmore, fall activities included participation in Homecoming and Halloween celebrations. The chapter took much pride in the part that Ed "Congo" Butler played in winning the Carolino game, aided by Brother Bert Johnston.

At their annual Christmas party, the Alpha Sigs crowned Sue Keith as their first Talisman Queen. Her selection marked the inauguration of a practice which the men intend to make the highlight of their Yuletide affairs.

Shortly after the Christmas holidays, members and pledges practiced crow colling in anticipation for a big crow hunt. Brothers Gene Royston bagged the one and only crow, so pledges served the "victorious" members a dinner of chicken chow mein at Rock Springs.

The fraternity functioned under President "K" Rogers during the second semester. Scholarship continued to be an ever-important part in their activities, bracketing the chapter among the top three fraternities in that department.

As the result of new interior decoration, the unrelenting bull sessions were, in the main, shifted from the chapter room to a new den. A first-floor room was converted for this worthy purpose.

In campus organizations, Alpha Sigs continued to share honors. Blair was elected District President of Beta Beta Beta, Harry Bryant and Wiley Mitchell were named Business Manager and Assistant Manager, respectively, of Station WFDD. Bryan Bullard filled the unexpired term of Jack Overman as president of the Inter-Fraternity Council in early spring. Stan DeRiso joined the Air Forces.

• The Kappa Sigmas will long remember the year 1950-51 and will regard it as a year well spent in virtually every respect. Under the efficient guidance of President Glen Rowland, the fraternity ended an undeniably successful rushing season by pledging twenty-one boys to Delta Omega chapter in early fall.

The fraternity began their well planned social season by joining in the Homecoming celebrations in October. Before the game with State, the chapter held a reception at the house on North Faculty Avenue for all returning alumni, as was their custom before each home game. The annual Homecoming dance which was held in Durham was well attended by all Kappa Sigs.

Continuing the social activities, Hallowe'en was enjoyed by the brothers in participating in an informal party at which members wore "hayseed" clothes and drank sweet cider.

With the coming of the Christmas season, Kappa Sigma planned a Christmas Dance with four other fraternities. The dance was held at the Virginia Dare Ballroom in the Sir Walter Hotel in Raleigh. Just prior to going home for the holidays, a traditional stag party was held, after which the members serenaded the campus with Christmas carolling.

Adviser Professor Soule and Mrs. Soule surprised the chapter with an examination party, thus performing an admirable service for the fraternity during exam week.

In the spring, extensive repairing was started on the house, as was the building of a recreation area in the back which may double as a parking lot during football season.

Kappa Sigs who left for the service were: Bill Marsh, Jack Lanning, Jim Street, J. E. Johnson, and Bob Mims. Officers leading the fraternity were: Glen Rowland, president, Floyd Homes, vice-president, Jack Lanning, secretary, and Al Talton, treasurer.

The first exciting season of the year was Homecoming. After the football game, pledges, members, and dates were treated to a buffet supper. The climax of the weekend celebrations was the presentation of the Homecoming Decorations Trophy to the chapter.

With spring and warm weather came an interest in steak fries. The chapter's outdoor oven was the scene of several outdoor parties. Also during the spring semester Delta Nu held its annual Sigma Chi Sweetheart Ball. Honored guest for the evening was Coed Julie Watson, chapter sweetheart for the 1950-51 school year.

The members managed to collect several trophies during the year. Other than the Homecoming Decorations Trophy, the chapter added the All-Campus Sing Award. To help stimulate achievement in scholarship, Brother Lewis Bolin presented the chapter with the Dr. Frank Powers Scholarship Cup. This award, in honor of the fraternity adviser, is to be awarded each year to the leading scholar in the fraternity.

The chapter had several representatives on varsity athletic teams. In the fall, Tom Donahue and Louis Simmons performed on the gridiron at center and end, respectively. On the hardwood, Buck "The Blond Fireball" Geary and Stan "Old Reliable" Najeway were mainstays with the Deacon cage squad.

Four members and eight pledges were lost to the Armed Services during the year. Members leaving were: Squeaky Correll, Tracy Jordan, John Watson, and Ray Cole.

Officers assisting Consul Buck Geary through the year were: Jim Swain, vice-president; Bill Schreck, secretary; Dick Morgan, treasurer; Puddin' Copeland, Magister; Charlie Jaczko, tribune; and Bob Loftis, historian.

• Theta Chi moved into its new house this year. The huge colonial house, located on North Main Street, gradually became very attractive due to the efforts of pledges and members. The house was painted, and several new pieces of furniture were purchased.

One of the prize possessions of the brothers was the beautiful Fraternity Scholarship Trophy. The hotly contested award was presented to the chapter in a chapel service early in the fall semester.

Homecoming celebrations set off a series of entertainments for the fall semester. Open house was held, and a large number of dates and alumni were entertained.

Just prior to the Christmas holidays, the Wake Forest and Duke Theta Chis convened in Durham for a joint banquet and party. It was the first such event with the new Duke chapter.

In the spring of the year, members attended the Mason-Dixon Jubilee at the Hotel Carolina in Raleigh. This was a convention attended by all of the Theta Chi chapters in North Carolina, Virginia, and Maryland. The convention was concluded with a banquet and dance.

Preceding the annual spring dances, the frat held its annual Dream Girl Ball which has come to be the high spot on the social calendar. The formal affair was held at the community house, which was decorated in the traditional fraternity colors, red and white.

The lodge was comparatively fortunate in the small number of men leaving for the Armed Forces during the year. Brothers Altan Harris and Dadson Mathias entered the Navy, and Pledge Edward Hamilton joined the Coast Guards.

Leading the fraternity through the year were Bob and Dave Mauney, who served successively as president of the chapter. Assisting the Mauney brothers were Vice-Presidents Carl Mangrum and Fred Claghorn; Secretaries Paul Walters and Charlie Casper, and Treasurers Bill Taylor and Dave Humphries.

FRIDAY NIGHT DANCES help get a maximum number of people acquainted at a minimum of expense. Facial studies caught by camera parallel those seen in Circuses.

THE CAMPUS COMMUNITY —1950-51 VERSION

• After registration's hectic redtape battle, contrasted by the following week of dull classes, a crowd was ready for the "old fashioned square dance with real mountain music" on the last Friday in September. It was just too early to start studying, and there were old friends to see, and new ones to make. As if waiting for pals to come out, upperclassmen lingered conspicuously on the chapel steps until after the 10:30 bell looking over the new "crop" of freshman coeds. At the first Community House dance, it was the same old ratio: 3 to 1—girls' favor.

The Social Standards Committee's first fashion show had a record attendance. Townspeople and coeds came to see the clothes. Boys came to see the coeds. Monday's chapel problem was solved when the first issue of "Old Gold and Black" announced it would come out early every Monday morning. WFDD was back on the air with "Deaconlite Serenade," for the early-to-beds who hadn't made "connections" yet, and the hustlers who had were already pouring in requests.

Greetings and gossip ran high: new students, new friends, old students gone, a new college president, always speaking somewhere; changes in the faculty, Deacons tie Beantown in first game, still unpredictable, Coach "Peahead" getting married!

At the gym through the week and at church on Sunday, Coach Phil was terribly missed. The trip to the postoffice became a part of the routine again the mud puddles in front of the church, even in dry weather; and the trains, longer than ever; the "new" B & S department store's big sign, with the crazy shape nobody could figure out; and Vic Zabelski, always standing in front of Woaten's after supper, joking about his leg and yelling at everybody who passed.

October came with everybody worked up over the first home football game. The pep rally was a march all over town, with torches flickering in the drizzle, and freshmen seemed unusually well adapted to the hilarity of it all. The next day, all Wake Forest and 339 "angels" from Meredith saw the Deacons give Peahead a wedding present—a 43-0 victory over Richmond. Things were looking up.

By now, everybody had seen and heard Dr. Tribble, and they took back what they had said about getting a theologian for president. Campus organizations fell into full swing. Students were saying "let's face it" and at least made pretenses of doing so by cracking their books. The buildings looked older than ever, and sentimentalists questioned the move to Winston-Salem. But definite plans were being made.

FOOTBALL IS ASLO THE SPECTATOR'S SPORT

• While the football team worked out, students got ready for the game. Before the Carolina game, banners were flying by Tuesday, and spontaneous pep rallies cropped up on the campus all week wherever there were enough people around to make a sizable amount of noise. It was all made official on Friday night, when the year's biggest pep rally was held in the Chapel with Dr. Tribble among the speakers and Station WPTF broadcasting.

While the team played, the fons worked out, especially at Kenan Stadium. A standing crowd sweated as the Tar Heels and Deacons battled under a 7-7 score, then went wild as Dickie Davis managed somehow to hit Ed Butler with a long pass during the last 13 seconds of the game. Hats filled the air on one side of the field, and stillness, on the other. The stadium wasn't empty until dark, and at two o'clock the next morning, more Wake Forest students were still straggling back on the campus. The real Homecoming spirit was set in motion, and the campus was in a flourish the next week as all-out preparations were made for the big event.

Veteran frat members racked their brains for ingenious ideas, while shirt-sleeved pledges struggled with dummies and gadgets to enter in the inter-fraternity competition for decoration awards. The halls of the girls' dormitories were filled with sprawling coeds touching up fancy banners, and paint was everywhere. Even the B.S.U. had a Homecoming project this time.

The little Wake County community was flooded with visitors and alumni. The campus looked like a prosperous Used Car lot in places. Frat doors were opened wide to alumni who had their pockets bulging with income tax slips. Some of the optimists had expected money. Everybody welcomed the alumni anyway and deftly made room for them by tearing the tops off the houses with rousing greetings and handshakes.

It was interesting to hear the alumni lament about the old college not being what it used to be. Most of the students were smugly glad. They had become sentimentally attached to the long freight trains and traffic jams. The alumni marvelled at the new chapel which they hadn't had. Students then agreed that the "old school" wasn't what it used to be.

Among the fights was the one for extra tickets. But everybody got in somehow to see the awaited spectacle. The work was done; students were as wide-eyed as the alumni and visitors when the sponsors were introduced. The majorettes strutted, the bands performed, and the Deacons played on.

PEP RALLIES—AND A TEAM THAT BEAT CAROLINA!

• Every Saturday in the fall is football day all over America. Wake Forest was an exception in that every day was football day in Deacon Hollow. Games were played and replayed, cussed and discussed all over the campus. Everybody knew what was wrong with the squad except the coach, but everyone generally agreed that it was one of the best teams in years.

Before the cheers had subsided from one game, pep rallies for the following game had already started. Victory-mad students filled the campus with hysterical yells to inspire the Deac warriors. Everybody was a part of the endless spontaneous cheering.

Some of the cheering was organized on Friday nights when the high-spirited cheerleaders "suited up" with the white sweaters and the big megaphoned W's. The raving contingency was led by Davle Bedsale, head cheerleader, who could pull his hair out faster than any other rabid fan.

The Friday night war dance would usually start in front of Wait Hall by the bookstore, hub of student doin's. Everybody came including the sedate director of music, Thane MacDonald. Nobody was calm very long when the drums rolled and torches flared.

The seething mob would push and pull around the circle in front of Wait Hall until the weaker ones had been trampled and eliminated. Then the band would go into its best mob movement. The torchmen moved up in front of the band and waved their ignited torches wildly. Very few students were burned by the torches this year. In front of the torchbearers and banners

AFTER WITNESSING the Baby Deacs score another victory—this time over the William and Mary Papooses—fans linger awhile in pleasant autumn weather to talk over promising frosh athletes.

LET'S GO WAKE FOREST! rings out across the field as the cheerleaders lead the student body in a rousing yell to stimulate Baptist Hollow spirit.

DEMON DEACONS are led onto the field by tackle Jim Staton, captain for the game, and are greeted by the college band with the fight song.

INEVITABLE BONFIRE on the eve of Homecoming draws large crowd as autumn air brings football enthusiasm to its peak. Singing and yelling until they are hoarse, frosh, who gathered wood for the traditional fire, render loudest yells. College band leads in sounding out school songs.

would be the big W's, with the cheerleaders behind them. Then the rear of the mob would start the parade by pushing forward. This feature was often criticized for its backwardness.

Once the parade (using the word loosely) was under-way, the group would move around the campus via Bastwick, Johnson Dorm, Phi Alpha Delta Inn, and Simmons. It always served to rouse the scholars from the books to join the procession. Friday night was generally considered a poor night to study, so, nobody studied.

By the time the procession passed Underpass Gulch, the band had played the school fight songs several times. Everybody liked to sing all the fight songs. The favorite was "O Here's to Wake Forest."

The mob would round Hen House Curve and climb Dick Frye Hill and proceed through the very heart of the booming business section down to P. D.'s Corner. There amidst the quiet of the postoffice and Holding's cotton bales, all H. would break loose.

The cheerleaders would take command of the center of the mob and lead in yells and several of the school songs. Everybody liked that Fight! Team! Fight! thing. Even the seniors knew that one. One of the favorite fight songs was "O Here's to Wake Forest."

From all this spirited yelling and cheering came the added impetus to raise the big Deacs from little Wake Forest to the occasion when the time came to knock off somebody like Duke or Carolina. The team rose to several such occasions rather successfully. Part of the credit was due to the student support, but few thought of it that way. They were always too busy preparing for the coming Friday night and another Baptist Hollow Pep Rally.

DRUM MAJORETTES are an undeniable feature of a good marching band. Sara Page Jackson, Ann Blackwelder, Polly Dickens, Vernell Abernathy, Jo Kinsey, and Paula Baie pose with good-luck wreath presented by the "Angels" of Meredith College at the George Washington game.

"TORCHY" Kimsey gives with the blues as Doyle Bedsole plays Krupa at College Talent Show.

TALENT SCOUT Doc Murphrey knows a good thing when he sees it and gives the second place award to Jo Kimsey for her singing—which matches her looks.

FRESHMAN ELECTIONS turn the bookstore into scene of action as the wheels of the caucus begin to turn. Last minute campaign speeches are hurled back and forth, and candidates become the best friends of everyone on the campus.

A CLEAN SWEEP is made over at Simmons as pledges are supervised by snirking frat brothers. Paddles command a great deal of interest for some reason, but pledges dream of revenge.

MR. AND MRS. PEAHEAD and Dr. and Mrs. E. E. Fulk, judges for best dressed couple at Dogpatch Square Dance, award first prizes to "Sadie Hawkins" Smith and "Smoke" Wayne.

SADIE HAWKINS DAY— COTCH OR BE COTCHED

• Al Capp himself would have been pleased with the annual Sadie Hawkins Day Race on the Wake Forest campus. Dozens of Li'l Abners and Daisy Maes came to life as Marryin' Sam, ably portrayed by Huldah Lineberry, fired the shot to begin the race. Demure coeds were suddenly changed to ferocious man-hunters as they pursued the men of their choice over the magnolia-studded campus. Desperate males took to the trees, but this proved no obstacle to the fairer and supposedly gentler sex, for the ladies proved their adeptness at tree climbing and seldom failed to get their man and bring 'em back alive. Highlight of the chase was the capture of Ed "Congo" Butler by FIVE coeds—lucky man. After the dust cleared, every male in view was wearing a large "He's Tooked" sign, and their captors dragged them back, humiliated and dejected, to Marryin' Sam for the marriage ceremony. That night, the new bridegrooms were escorted by their brides to the big dance in Gore Gymnasium, decorated in true Dogpatch style. A hillbilly band furnished the music for square dancing and Kickapoo Joy Juice (without the kick) was served to all comers. So ended Sadie Hawkins Day, 1950, in Baptist Hollow.

CITY SLICKERS who failed to enjoy the skunk stew find more appetizing repast at the W.R.A. booth. They conclude that hot hogs will probably sell.

OUR "NEWISH" PRESIDENT IS INAUGURATED

• After Dr. Thurman D. Kitchin had guided Wake Forest College through thick and thin for twenty years, the loss of so great a president was deeply felt when he resigned, and hopes for filling the huge vacancy he left were wavering. Then all hopes were fulfilled when Dr. Harold Wayland Tribble came to the Wake Forest Campus and quickly won the admiration of those in every phase of the college's life. A trained theologian, but keenly interested in all fields and the master of any situation, Dr. Tribble had convinced the students, by the time he had finished his first chapel speech, that the right man had been found, and they joined the trustees, faculty, and alumni in proudly acclaiming him as their president.

On Tuesday morning, November 28, Wake Forest turned formal and hailed its new leader with the fourth public inauguration ever held on the campus. For weeks, all sorts of committees had worked on their respective phases of the important day's proceedings, and when the day arrived, the inauguration was carried out to everyone's satisfaction. It was colorful and exciting, and a sense of importance pervaded the campus two hours before the ceremony began, drinking coffee in the Recreation Room and chatting with students and other friends wherever they met them.

When the formal ceremony did begin, it was executed with precision. Judge Hubert Olive, Chairman of the Board of Trustees presided. Dr. Oliver Cromwell Carmichael, President of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Learning, delivered the principal address. Before the address, an academic procession of 300 dignitaries opened the exercises—delegates from learned societies, trustees and former trustees of the College, officers and members of the Baptist State Convention, and Wake Forest faculty members in their academic robes. Greetings were extended Dr. Tribble by Dr. Gordon Gray, President of the Greater University of North Carolina; Dr. Carlyle Campbell, President INAUGURAL ADDRESS of Dr. Tribble set forth his many plans for the Wake Forest of the future, putting special emphasis on the speedy establishment of the school in its new locale. Dr. Tribble stressed the importance of complete cooperation in the movement program lest it bog down in midstream.

of Meredith College, Dr. Arthur Hallis Edens, President of Duke University, and Dr. Spright Dowell, President of Mercer University.

After Dr. Carmichael's address, "The South at Mid-Century," Judge Olive presented Dr. Tribble with the College's charter and a set of symbolic keys. And towering above them all for it was his occasion—was Dr. Tribble, with usual good expression, thanking all of those who "had brought him to this hour."

At 12:30 the ceremony was over and the crowd shifted to the Cafeteria for a formal luncheon. There, among the other distinguished after-dinner speakers paying tribute to the President, was Marian J. (Piggy) Davis, speaking on behalf of the Student Body amid the applause of others long since graduated from the College. Even after the luncheon, 700 guests were on hand at 3:30 for a reception at the President's home, the last big event of a full day. At dusk, the last guests were leaving, and it was all over. Harold Wayland Tribble was President of Wake Forest College, all the way.

PRECEDED BY distinguished participants in the inaugural procession, Dr. Tribble comes last, but is by no means the least impressive portion of the inaugural program.

CONGRATULATIONS from Dr. Black were happily received by President and Mrs. Tribble at the reception held in their home after the installation ceremonies.

PRINCIPAL GUESTS, Dr. O. C. Carmichael and Dr. Kitchen, president emeritus, chat with the new president.

INAUGURAL BANQUET guest speakers included Mr. James Hoge, Marion Davis, and Mr. M. A. Huggins.

WINTER'S MAGIC transformed the campus into a winter wonderland, and a lonely week-end became something out of a story-book for Margaret Davison and Bob Rouse as they strolled beneath the snow-capped magnolias. Other activities were scenes of snowball fights between coeds and hapless males.

HOLIDAYS WERE HERALDED BY PARTIES—AND A DANCE

- The Christmas spirit was scheduled to arrive in Wake Forest December 7 in the form of a Yuletide parade, complete with band, floats and Santa Claus, but a cold, damp rain that day postponed it until the following Monday. It really made little difference however, for Deacotown had already caught that holiday feeling and the dampening effects of rain were of no consequence.

By Friday night, the fraternity houses, dorms, and the downtown areas were bedecked with traditional Yuletide trimmings in preparation for the fraternity parties and dorm open houses that were scheduled for that evening. The dorm open-houses were reported as unusually successful, and for the boys brave enough to stand under the mistletoe over in Bastwick, there was an added reward.

Saturday was another cold, gray day, and rain began to fall before it was finished, but the campus, having grown used to that not infrequent element, went right ahead with its Christmas plans. In the absence of any collective dance, the fraternities scattered to Raleigh and other places for their traditional pre-holiday fling.

On Sunday, the last Sabbath before the holidays, Wake Forest abandoned the secular side of Christmas and turned its attention to a true realization of the Christmas spirit. The Sunday School program was centered around a Christmas theme, and the College Training Union presented a religious pageant that night. Sunday was climaxed, however, by the rendition of Handel's Messiah by the College Glee Club under Professor Thane McDonald. Sung to an appreciative audience in the College Chapel, the performance featured Mrs. Charles Allen, soprano, Miss Jean Johnson, contralto, Charles Greene, tenor, and J. B. Benton, baritone-bass.

Professor MacDonald made his second appearance before Wake Forest audiences in as many nights when his College Band presented its annual Christmas concert in the Chapel. Afterwards, members of the band, glee club and orchestra attended a Yuletide party in the Community House.

The coeds from both dorms held a joint party in the Music-Religion Building recreation room Thursday night, and it promised to be and was such a festive occasion that Dean Johnson granted her charges 11:30 permission on a week night, which all goes to show that the faculty and administration shared the benevolent attitude that pervaded the campus at Christmas time.

THE CHEMISTRY OF XMAS

Everybody attended the party except a few girls who were so touched by the kindness of the Dean that they stayed in the dorms. The girls who went didn't mind too much. They considered it an admirable improvement on the ailing boy-girl ratio. The boys would have worried about it, but there was too much to eat. As always, there was plenty of punch (with no punch). Some of the men stood around in the corners and held out for egg nog, but the stores were closed, and the Woman's Government had forgotten the eggs.

Some of the dorm cliques and frots had parties for the purpose of exchanging gifts. The Dime Store had one of the largest rushes in years. The parties were a big success because everybody either got a gift or kept their own.

The pre-Christmas week was climaxed by caroling by the BSU and the Christian Service Group, and Christmas baskets filled by contributions from Wake Forest students were distributed at that time.

All ten social fraternities added their bit toward helping to spread Christmas cheer. Each took the name of a needy family supplied by the American Legion and financed the purchase of a Christmas basket for it.

GLEE CLUB PARTY highlights the season for members of the songsters. Still on relief, "Congo" Butler and "Jellybean" Gaddy receive hand-out after presentation of the "Messiah."

BURRIS, LEWIS, Jackson, Stanland, Scaff, and Bullard beam. Cued always say, "Nothing like being outnumbered."

NEW SILVER SERVICE is tested before the crowd arrives for the Christmas open house in Johnson Dorm. Hostesses Elkin, Deane, Smith, and Williams find everything satisfactory.

HOLIDAY GREETING rings through the air as Sigma Chi carolers gather under the windows of the girls' dorm to sing the traditional Christmas carols. Under the direction of Tracy Jordan, the Sigma Chis form their fraternity emblem by the use of lighted candles.

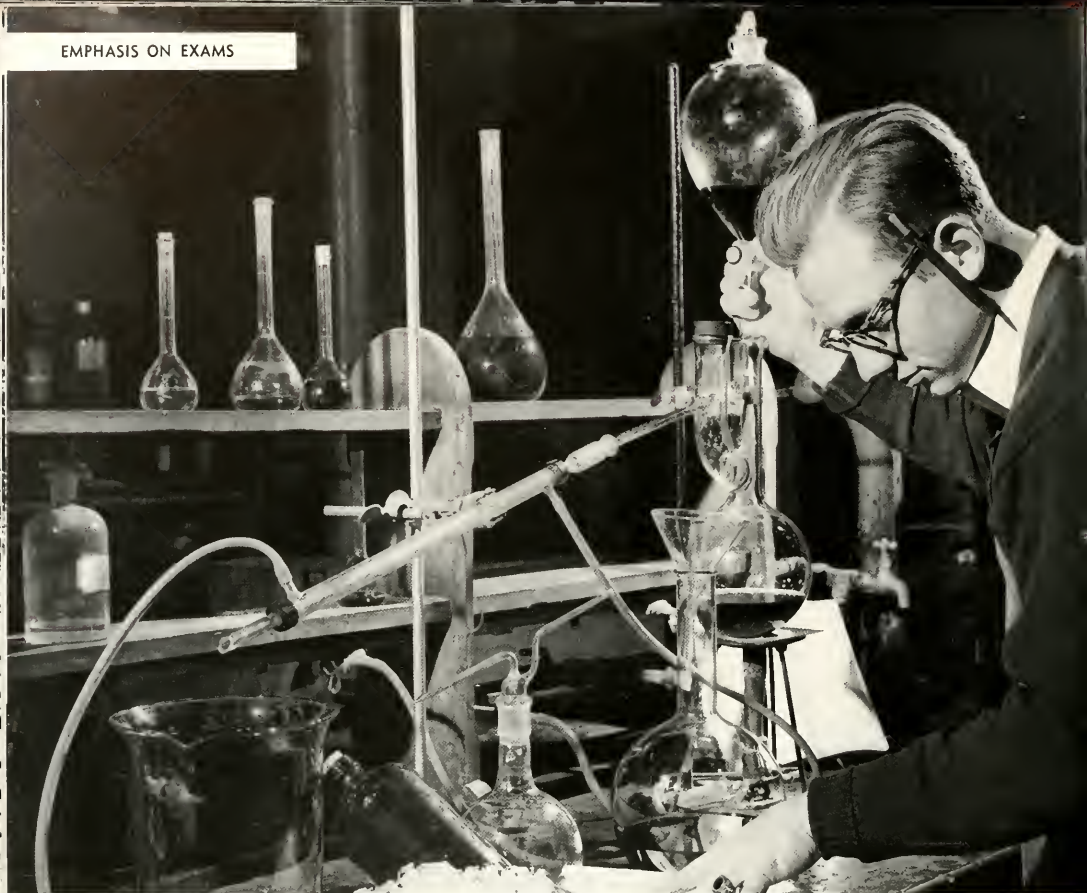

TURKEY SHOOT sponsored by Baldy Harris requires an extra steady hand and two good eyes. Working for his Christmas dinner, Ken Ward easily meets the accuracy requirements and wins.

BARBER SHOP STYLE, this lovely quartet. Mary Alice Jones, Nancy Hedrick, Jenny Johnson, and Pat Smith reveal vocal talent hitherto unknown.

CHORUS GIRLS from P.D.'s entertain during W.R.A. party. Out of step are Sara, Frances, Jeanie, Stormy, Joy, Ruthie, and Julie.

COMBINING THEORY with workable problems, Dr. A. E. Wellott, chemistry whiz, pooders over difficult experiment trying to figure the darn thing out. Truth is, he's just trying to remember where he put his pencil.

WE TURN SCHOLARLY—ON OCCASION . . .

- Exams come four times a year at Baptist Hollow. Mid-terms are a warning to pack for the long trek home, and finals are, for many, just what the name implies.

There was one very nice feature about exams this year, however. Nothing like Homecoming dances to take your mind off fall mid-terms. Then first semester finals came right after Christmas holidays, thus insuring that nobody's mind was cluttered with unnecessary details. Spring mid-terms came before Easter, giving the students a full week in which to recover. Second semester finals came after Lake Mirl opened, and the golf course was having its best season of the year.

Exams were generally not too general. Lots of professors liked to refer to them as "comprehensives." Comprehensive means "including much" according to Winston's Collegiate. Here it sometimes meant "including more"—more than the professor had talked about!

On the night before exams, some decided that it was too late to start studying. Others had made the same decision three months earlier. The true scholar retired to his den with all the necessary articles around him: chewing gum, cigarettes, no-dozz tablets, sandwiches, milk, candy, and sometimes books. The usual procedure was to take the book from the shelf, tenderly press back the new pages, and begin. By morning, the scholar was ready for a night of diligent study.

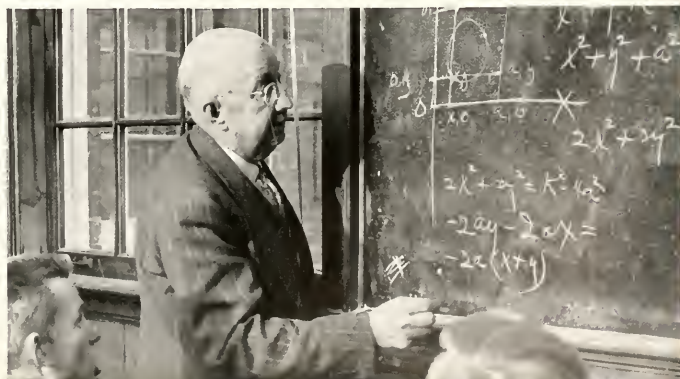

FELIX DOMESTICUS is carefully explored in a futile effort to find the elusive nerve that Dr. Bradbury declares is so important. CHEMISTRY MAD Hubert Gorrell and Joe Whitley struggled to finish last minute experiments before studying for final examinations.

NO-DOZE pills come in handy when you have to do last-minute cramming. These early morning hours must be just too much for previously overworked corpse in the bed. Just didn't have any character.

MATH WHIZ, "Pop" Carroll, and Bill George are the only ones who can make sense out of those marks on the board. If x equals y , what is the price of eggs in China?

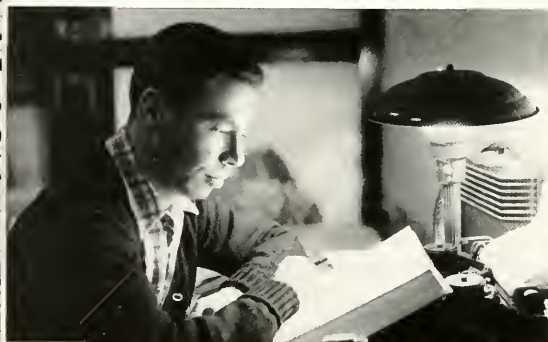

BULL, CUTS, GRADES, STUDY; IN ORDER OF IMPORTANCE

The exam hour at Deacon Hallow was 180 minutes long. In this short time, the student was supposed to cram into three hours and several pages the same information that had taken some Ph.D. years and hundreds of pages. Few ever succeeded, but most had memorized enough chapter titles to pass. Triumphant over "writer's cramp" and other common ailments, enough students always got by to keep the enrollment up the following year.

No graduate of the college would ever forget the last minute crammers, the pacing professors, no pencil sharpeners, the honor system "spread out," and Everette Snyder's best seller—the immortal "Blue Book." In defense of the students, it must be added that many knew more than they recorded, but inconsiderate professors just didn't ask the right questions.

MID-NIGHT OIL is burned by Clyde Randolph in an effort to get a few more cases reviewed before his law exam.

MID-TERM GRADES given out by Dr. Bradbury are hurriedly scanned by two anxious freshman football players.

YACKETY-YACK CONVENTION breaks up the routine of study as they take time for cukes and comments.

The lights dim in the law building; curtains rise in Johnson Dorm—Wake's seasonal (spring, summer, fall, winter) drama breaks popularity records . . . and the critics rave.

SNYDER'S EMPORIUM is a popular place to eat, buy school supplies, small clothing articles or anything that costs money. Here, the lunch counter is rushed by starving co-eds. Male students sulk in background hoping to mooch a sandwich or Moon Pie off the rich co-eds.

FRAT FILES yield a wealth of old term papers, notes, and examinations which have been accumulated through the years. Needless to say, those pictured wish to remain nameless.

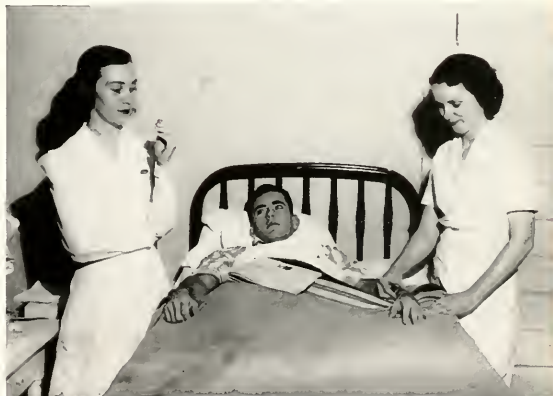

TIME OUT between classes give students and professors alike a breather. Vantage point gives lawyers attractive view.

PRETTY NURSES Emily Russell and Frances Tumblin enable Jim Oldham to endure his illness. Condition: Speedy pulse, soaring temperature. Anything to get a cut excused.

REFERENCE ROOM is the scene of last minute note-taking as students hurry to finish their over-due term paper.

MAIN DRAG of the town is the scene of a bustling metropolis. In the heart of down-town Wake Forest, a parking-lot for mules gives cosmopolitan air to commercial section.

MERCHANTS—MEALS—MAIL

• Wake Forest College would not be the same without the town. A more popular way of stating it during the year was that the town would not be the same without the college, but that was still in the future.

There are two known and accepted ways of going from the campus to town. One is under the tracks, which is the longer way per step. The other way is to go over the tracks, which is the longer way per minute, as the train is always passing just at mail hour or chow time. And when longer trains are built, Seaboard will build them and run them all through Wake Forest.

The only good thing that can be said for the railroad is that it goes right through. One of the real Wake mysteries was why the trains stopped so long for no passengers at all and too little mail.

The heart of the town was the postoffice. Few students ever visited Jones' Hardware or the furniture stores, and some didn't eat regular, but everybody visited the postoffice periodically. It was best known for its annoying doors and pleasant clerks.

There was a rumor out this year as in all preceding years that the building would get a set of revolving doors. The revolving doors never came and probably never would, but everybody agreed that it was a nice rumor. It was sure to return to school the following year.

The mail clerks under the General Delivery signs were some of the town's most popular citizens. Mrs. Greason topped the list. She knew more names than a campus politician. Even when she couldn't remember a name, she could always call a student by his box number.

A lot of the students got in the habit of eating three meals a day. These were especially grateful for the grocery stores and cafes. The College Inn (the old-timers called it the Hen House right on), Dick Fry's, Wooten's, Brown's, Sharty's, and P. D.'s were responsible for student calories. Out on the edge of town, Wooten Sr. and his Hometel did their part for the athletic-type student who would walk a mile for a meal.

It was a sad day in Wake Forest when P. D. hung his "No Credit" sign on the cash register. It was the last place in town where a person could mooch a meal or run up a bill. But despite late G. I. checks, infrequent checks from home, and with the help of the family-sized Hadacol, students managed to satisfy their vitamin quotas.

The town provided plenty of amusement too. It was often said that Wake Forest students studied harder than any other college student because they had nothing else to do. The statement was not entirely true.

RICH STUDENTS enjoy eating in style and comfort at palatial P. D. Club in the heart of Wake Forest's night club section. Notice the haggard look of the emaciated peasant on the outside looking in. Some students just couldn't afford three meals a day.

GENERAL DELIVERY does a big business as usual. Some of these eager students came down at five-thirty in the morning to get their place in line. Jane Lewis, Mary Alice Williamson, Barbara White, Jean Pope, and Eleanor Mahoney grin as clock indicates only two hours and fifteen minutes until opening time.

COLLEGE INN, alias the Hen House, is a favorite Deacon Hollow eatery. Anita Elkins, Jane Lewis, and Billie Schulken are in the foreground, and Patty Angell and Connie Hart can be seen at the second table.

IN THE HEART OF DOWN-TOWN WAKE FOREST

CUTTING CHAPEL is popular extra-curricular activity. Students find unusually good service at the barber shop and drug stores. Most truants just loaf, however.

DRUG STORE COWGIRLS give with the wolf calls as Joe Koch's physique passes down the street. The girls are getting a little revenge in something of a switch.

The town had two fine movie houses with running trains. It was always fascinating to go to the movies to see if the trains would come by right at the best point of the show. They hardly ever failed.

During the year, the owner of the theatres raised the price of admission. Frat men turned out to picket the theatres for two weeks, but they didn't have enough pickets to watch the rear entrance which other frat men were using. When the picketing was over, prices were still high as was attendance at the shows.

The oldtimers told the younger students about the days when the town also had a Shuffleboard Center for additional recreation. Two carpetbaggers had come to town about three years ago and opened the place. The two shady gents going under the names of "Frog" Augst and George Parker were ridden out of town on a rail by the YWA in 1949.

PICKET LINES were placed in front of the movies in an unsuccessful protest against increase in ticket prices.

The back room of Shorty's was a favorite hangout for male students. Since there were only four pool tables, Shorty could not accommodate the co-ed trade. Most of the girls either played bridge in Capeland's or walked up and down in front of Holding's Drug Store. Edward's Drug Store was only a block away, but no drooling men stood around in front of Edward's.

In the last analysis, nothing bad could be said about the town or the merchants. The students and businessmen were the best of friends. Everything about the town was fine except the parking, and nobody ever got fined for that.

The traffic situation was generally pretty good though. Only one accident occurred during the year when a mule and wagon backed into the fireplug. The mule got one of the largest audiences since the inauguration.

LEAVING STUDIES BEHIND. Al Black and George Bartels take off a couple of hours to see a double feature downtown.

A FAMILIAR SCENE is unconsciously reenacted in the college cafeteria at mealtime as cashier Evelyn Blackwell puts the financial bite on Ray Cole.

DEEP CONCENTRATION marks the face of "Monk" Pierce as he tries for the side pocket in a game of eight-ball in the pool room in the back room of Shorty's.

A FRIENDLY CHAT in front of Holding's Drug Store is no unusual sight. Mary Lou Johnson, Barbara Sanders, Jennette Moore, Vic Zahelski, and Bobby Coluni enjoy this pastime.

LATECOMERS who often outnumber those who come on time, remain even later to shoot a little bull before going to hear Monday chapel session. Next to being late to class, being late to chapel is one of the most popular sports on the campus.

TEN A.M. MFW'S—ALL 1,700 ATTENDED CHAPEL

• Chapel was a part of your schedule, whether you liked it or not, Monday, Wednesday and Friday, 10:00-10:20 . . . or 10:30, or 10:40, which was either very good or very bad, depending upon what class followed. After five cuts, a little reminder came in the mail! After ten, you couldn't register at Wake Forest for the next semester. And there were always those second semester seniors who strolled by and smirked at you as you entered, then continued on their merry way to breakfast. They, along with law students, got extra special service in the restaurants down town during this period.

Somebody was always griping about all the chapel programs being "preachers." But as sure as you would cut, they would come up with something good. And of all times, the hidden alarm clock set at 10:20 had to go off during one of those "good" programs! Everybody stayed outside and shot the bull until the second bell had rung at 10 o'clock. Then they went inside to study . . . on Wednesdays and Fridays. Monday was "Old Gold and Black" day. To break the monotony, there was always the glee club to look at during the speech and to listen to during the choral response, until the morning they surprised everybody and sat in the balcony. After that, everybody turned around and got a crick in his neck trying to watch them during special numbers.

Some of the best chapel programs of the year occurred on Monday morning. There were the tapping days when the big dogs were granted membership in the Student Dog Association. There was also a series of lectures on the Honor System in which a handful of students were interested. But everybody came back for more.

Toward the end of each semester, there was always excellent chapel attendance.

A QUIET PLACE TO STUDY is found in the Religion Library as students settle down for a session of real study on some of those difficult passages in the Bible.

PIANO MAGIC by Wade Gallant provides entertainment for the crowd at a Sunday evening BSU social.

MUSICAL TREAT of the year was the wonderful concert of Lucille Cummings, contralto. Miss Cummings charmed everyone with her warm, vibrant interpretations.

RUSTLING PAGES greeted the ears of the unfortunate chapel speaker on the morning that a brand-new copy of the "Student" was given out in chapel.

FIVE-MINUTE LIMIT is shared by daters on the steps of Bostwick. A ritual, the object of the first bell is to warn couples that they must use the entire five minutes, and the second bell begins sprint by coeds, which is usually refereed by Mrs. O'Brian.

UNDER THE MAGNOLIAS are Jean Johnson and Dave Herring who note that spring is almost here, along with graduation and departure.

SPRING—AND THE YEAR WAS SUDDENLY ENDED—

• Spring was slow arriving. It always was. But with its coming, the campus was revitalized by the Magnolia blossoms, baseball games, tennis, golf, and campus elections. Moreover, about one-fourth of the student population was beginning to assume the air of the care-free college graduate. Some of them achieved the distinction early in June.

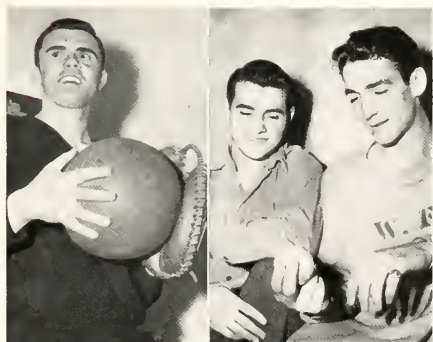

Campus elections were up to par. Both parties stood for the same thing on two different platforms. The platform sounded vaguely familiar. There were the usual amount of brotherly handshakes with total strangers and plenty of willing and "impartial" people to show the frosh how to fill out their ballots. Very few dead people and alumni voted this year.

SNOWBOUND isn't so bad grins "Smoke" Wayne as he gleefully drags the lifeless form of Frances Arndt across the campus.
WHAT A WAY to make love! However, Margaret Davison and Don Cabiness seem to be enjoying their cold seat under Magnolias.

After the excitement of May Day, spring dances, and elections began to fade, thoughts turned to summer vacations and commencement. At graduation, everybody was sad except the seniors. They had not yet realized that the past four years had really been the best years of their lives. Amidst songs and speeches, to which only the parents listened, the class of '51 was paroled. The seniors gaily twisted General Douglas MacArthur's words to read "Old seniors never die, they just fade away." They all faded happily.

GUARD ALTON BROOKS exhibits the basketball he uses during one season and a catcher's mitt used during the spring.

PITCHERS Don Woodlief and Stan Johnson converse over hurling strategy.

OUTFIELDER K. ROGERS brushes up on his Spanish before the Argentina trip.

PACKING BATS for the long trip to South America is pleasant work for Wiley Warren and Jack Stallings.

CHICAGO

"Jahn & Ollier Again"

A familiar and reassuring slogan

FAMILIAR...because it has appeared in thousands of the country's finest yearbooks for the past half century.

REASSURING...because those years of specialized experience bring complete service, outstanding quality and dependable delivery to the yearbook staffs with whom we work.
